REGISTRY WILL COST NEAR $2300

Taxpayers Will Have to Pay Approximately That Sum for Three
Meetings of Board.

LAST ONE NOT SETTLED YET

Tabulated Comparison Shows Registration is Smaller than 1910
Vote in Only 2 Precincts.

The registration of voters in Rush county will cost the taxpayers in the neighborhood of twenty-three hundred dollars. It is doubtful if the total will run quite that large. It may be somewhere near twenty-two hundred and eighty dollars.

It is impossible to give the exact cost of the registration at this time, as the commissioners have not yet allowed the claims for the October registry. The claims as allowed by the commissioners reveal that the first registration in May cost $761.05, and the one in September, $759.80. This is a total of $1,520.85.

The claims which have been filed for the expenses of the October registry total $813.55. It will readily be seen that this is larger by more than fifty dollars than either of the others. It is highly probable that the commissioners will not allow the claims as made but will be guided by the same plan they have adopted in allowing claims for the other two. This will reduce the expense of the October one to near the same amount as the other two.

The total may vary a few dollars because of different rents that may be charged. A few registration places were changed this last time, and the rent for them may be less or greater than that paid before. Of course, the board has to allow these claims as demanded, if they are not exorbitant.

But there are some claims they do not have to allow as asked; viz.: those of inspectors. The board has made it a rule to allow the inspectors in the precincts outside the city for three days' work, or a total of twelve dollars. A day and a half is allowed for posting their books and a half day for making the trip to the county seat with their returns. The city inspectors have been allowed in the past only ten dollars for two and half days' work, the half day for making the trip to the court house being taken off. Some of the inspectors always put in a claim for four days' pay.

It is believed that when comparisons are made with the cost of registration in other counties, it will be found that Rush county, the size of its vote considered, has conducted its registration at as small a cost as any county in the state. Indeed, it will not be surprising if it turns out that Rush county has had the most economical registration of all the counties in the state.

Rush county has clearly demonstrated that in counties which have 5,000 voters, or thereabouts, the vote can easily be registered by holding a one-day session in each, May, September and October.

Several counties that have as many voters as Rush county are keeping their registration boards in session for the three days that the law allows, provided that petitions formally asking for it are filed with the registration boards. That this is a needless expense, that it makes the registration an unnecessary burden, is revealed by the fact that Rush county, with approximately 5,000 voters, got them practically all on the records without keeping the registration boards in session more than one day in any one of the three registrations.

As to the need of the registration in the county as a whole, there con-

Jones has announced that he will give a reward of fifty dollars for the recovery or information leading to the recovery of Ella Gentry, a three-year-old green pacing mare valued at twenty-five hundred dollars, which was stolen from the Riverside park training barns early Sunday morning. Postal cards have been printed and will be sent to the police of all cities in this part of the United States. Absolutely no trace of the horse has been found since the theft.

FIRST DEATH FROM TYPHOID THIS YEAR

Ellen Dungan, Age 12, Daughter of Thomas Dungan, Expires After
Ten Weeks Illness.

YOUNGER SISTER AFFLICTED

Little Ellen Dungan, age twelve, daughter of Thomas Dungan, 811 North Oliver street, died of typhoid fever last night. This is the first fatality from this dread disease since a year ago last August when John Lewis succumbed from the ailment. The little girl had been sick for ten weeks, and a few weeks back it was thought she would recover. A few days ago, however, the attending physician gave up all hope of her recovery. A younger sister, Elizabeth, is also afflicted with typhoid fever.

There have been several cases of typhoid fever here during the late summer and fall, but all have recovered or are on the road to recovery, with the exceptions in the Dungan family. It will be recalled that several weeks ago Mr. Dungan said he had asked the owner of the property where he lived to clean out the vault, and that when she did not heed him, he notified the city board of health. The property owner denied she had been asked to make the improvement. After some publicity was given to the episode the old vault was filled in and a new one dug. The Dungan girl will be buried in Morristown.

AT ILLINOIS STATE FAIR

James E. Watson Delivers Political
Address at Springfield Today.

James E. Watson delivered a political speech at the Illinois State fair at Springfield today and preparations were made for a monster crowd. Mr. Watson is scheduled to speak in Kansas City tomorrow night. From there he will go to Joplin, Missouri, for a speech Saturday night. This is the first week of the campaign that the local statesman has been outside of Indiana. It is likely that he will devote the remainder of the time until election day in the Hoosier State.

CARL MORRIS IS LOUDLY PRAISED

Rush County Boy Evokes Glowing
Tribute From an Indianapolis Audience.

GIVES RECITAL WEDNESDAY

Although Much Heralded, He More
Than Justified Expectations,
Critic Says.

Carl Morris, the New York barytone, received an ovation from the Matinee Musicals yesterday afternoon at Hollenbeck Hall. Sentiment did not play any part in this applause, for the former Hoosier boy truly won all his laurels, says Paul R. Martin in the Indianapolis Star. Much had been heralded of him, and he more than justified expectations.

This singer can be called a dramatic barytone, both vocally and in interpretation. His voice has great volume, and in its power it is not robbed of its musical quality. He has a fine breath control, and that, combined with perfect enunciation and technique gives only pleasure.

Mr. Morris opened his program with two Handel numbers, a Sarti number and a lovely old English song, "The Pretty Creature." Milton's poem, "Come and Trip It," set to music by Handel, was a splendid opening, for it seemed to give one a delightful invitation to the rest of the program. Handel's "Largo," the second number, so familiar to every one, was beautifully sung. The second group was of German and English songs, "Zueignung," by Strauss; "The Favorite Nook," by Mendelssohn, and "Eros," by Greig, received a round of applause, and Mr. Morris responded by singing a dainty little old Irish song, "The Foggy Dew." The third group was by French composers, and each one seemed to be the best and most artistic.

The climax of the program came with the artist's dramatic singing of the famous prologue from Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci." Most barytones are unable to reach the high notes in this work, but Mr. Morris sang with ease and grace.

An English group closed the program in a most fitting way. "Invectus," by Bruno Huhn, and "Mission," by Franz X. Arens, both Mr. Morris's teachers, were most worthily placed and splendidly sung on this program. The singer again reached high A. A. dingle song, "A Banjo Song," by the American composer, Sidney Homer, delighted the audience. The two Sanderson numbers, which closed the program, are new American compositions, fresh from the publishers, and Mr. Morris's trying them out met with splendid success.

GET CAR LOAD FROM OHIO

Horse Show Officials Receive Many
Horses For Auction.

Inquiries are being received daily from Ohio, Michigan and other central States for particulars concerning the combination sale which will be held the two days following the horse show, Friday and Saturday of next week. Many catalogues are being sent out. Only yesterday a consignment of a car load of high class horses was received from Ohio. It is estimated that the number of animals in the auction this year will be several times as large as it has ever been and that seventy-five per cent. of the horses will be blooded ones which will bring fancy prices.

RUBE MARQUARD WINS FOR GIANTS

Former Indianapolis Pitcher all But Shuts Out Red Sox in Third of World's Series.

FINAL COUNT TODAY IS 2 TO 1

Airtight Contest Goes to New York.
Boston Scoring Lone Tally In The Ninth.

Rube Marquard, the former Indianapolis pitcher, came back today. With him on the mound the New York Giants won the third of the world's championship base ball series from the Red Sox in Boston this afternoon.

The Rube was all but invincible. The Red Sox slipped over the run in their session of the ninth and thus rubbed Marquard of the glory of a shut-out game. The game was tight from start to finish, the Giants managing to squeeze one across in the second and one in the fifth. Marquard has been off his feed for some time, after having established a world's record by winning nineteen straight games.

Following a night of rain, which extended into the early morning hours, the Giants and Red Sox were prepared today to play off the second game of the series. Yesterday's tip-and-tuck struggle through eleven innings, which was ended in a tie, at 6 to 6, as darkness fell, brought the contest again to Fenway park. The score of the series today stood: Red Sox, one game won, one tied; Giants, one game lost, one tied.

Prospects for playing today's game were dubious until an hour or two after sunrise. Then the sun shone brightly on the rain-drenched grounds at Fenway park, drying up the moisture of the satisfaction of Jerome Kelly, the ground-keeper, who earlier had begun an attempt to obtain the same result by artificial means. The weather man predicted fair weather after 1 o'clock.

Managers McGraw and Stahl, in command with nearly all their players, were ready to greet the announcement of the postponement yesterday with satisfaction. Darkness ended yesterday an exhausting struggle, and one particularly hard on the pitchers. New York has two pitchers who need to rest. Tesreau, who was knocked out of the box in the opening game of the series in New York last Tuesday, and the one-time redoubtable Mathewson, who finished yesterday's game under a severe physical strain, Matty said today: "It was the hardest game I ever went through. I certainly felt 'all in' when it was over."

Mathewson's failure to win—this manner of phrasing the result most frequently voiced by the Boston players—was a blow to McGraw's plans. "I did expect Matty to win for us," he said. "I haven't used him for nearly a month, and I was sure he could come through. But he did not lose, we did not lose, and the molar victory belongs to us. The boys made a grand fight against a big, early lead. The same spirit will yet carry them through the series to the big title."

Manager Stahl also had a pitching problem to solve. With one game tucked safely away, that won with Joe Wood pitching at New York, Tuesday. Boston has used up four pitchers in two days, Collins, Hall and Bedient figuring successively in the Boston box yesterday.

Marquard was regarded as the best available pitcher for New York by baseball sharps, who were of the same opinion regarding Buck O'Brien, of the Red Sox twirlers.

Police Take Hand in Auction Game of Stranger.

Chief McAllister interfered with the plans of a traveling merchandise peddler yesterday afternoon at the Hall sale in the Davis sale pavilion. After the Hall sale was over the man started to sell merchandise by auction and as the law requires that any temporary business must have a license the chief of police gave him an option of securing a license or quit business. The license is $6 a day for both city and county and the stranger preferred to keep his money.

MORE THAN 100 MEN FEAST AT BANQUET

Brief Talks Are Made on Relation of Men in all Walks to Christianity.

TABERNACLE QUARTET SINGS

Over a hundred men enjoyed the banquet in the basement of the Main Street Christian church, held last evening in connection with the Biedewolf revival to enlist and interest business men in the meeting. The men feasted on the good things to eat set before them by the women of the church, and then a few brief talks were made. They were brief because of the fact that the banquet had to be finished before the meeting began.

John F. Moses talked first, on the subject, "The Influence of the Church on the Community." Link Guffin spoke for a few moments on the merchant as a Christian. Sam Trabue made a short toast on the lawyer as a Christian. Dr. Biedewolf spoke in a happy vein of the kind and courteous treatment he and his party had received in Rushville and urged the business men to enlist in the case because they can make it a success. E. C. Miller of the Biedewolf party pointed out what an opportunity is afforded Rushville by having such an evangelist as Dr. Biedewolf here. The tabernacle quartet sang several numbers and was heartily applauded.

JOHN KENNEDY ARRESTED

Rushville Man Held in Connersville
For Insulting a Woman.

John Kennedy of Rushville was arrested Wednesday afternoon as he was boarding an I. & C. car on a complaint sworn out by Pete Lutz, says the Connersville Examiner. Lutz complains that Kennedy insulted his wife and daughter. Kennedy was placed in the county jail and will appear before Mayor Hankins Thursday to answer to a charge of disorderly conduct.

The name of John Kennedy does not appear in the Rushville directory.

SHE KNOWS PAPA.

That Mrs. Alice Longworth, daughter of T. R., appreciates fully the family failing in her ancestor, is indicated by her quiet response to the query of a friend as to what she thought of her father, when she said: "Oh! Dad's all right. But he is the sort of a fellow who, if he goes to a funeral, wants to be the corpse, and if he goes to a wedding, wants to be the bride."

MAKE PLEA FOR PREPARATION

Dr. Biedewolf Points Out Bible
Truths in Regard to Life Hereafter in Tabernacle Sermon.

RESPECTABILITY NO SAVER

Special Sermon For High School
Students Friday Night—Farmers Day Saturday.

Dr. Biedewolf made a forceful plea at the tabernacle last night for preparation for a life beyond the grave. He called the crowd's attention to the fact that few of them knew where they would be should they have to face death in the next few hours.

"There are men and women in this city, hundreds of them," he continued, "prominent in public affairs, and people of respectability, who, if they should die tonight, every man and woman in Rushville would know where they went."

The crowd was larger last night than it was the night before and the interest in the meetings seems to be growing nightly. The Modern Woodman and Royal Neighbors were special guests at the tabernacle last night. Tomorrow night will be high school night and Dr. Biedewolf will preach a special sermon in the students' honor. Besides the local high school crowd, a delegation of students from a small town in Rush county will be present.

Special interest is attached to Farmers Day and people who are interested in the revival are looking forward to the event with great anticipation. An all day program of interest to farmers has been prepared with music and sermon in both the morning and afternoon. Many farmers and their families have expressed their intention of attending and bring their baskets filled with good things to eat. Free coffee will be served at the tabernacle.

Dr. Biedewolf's sermon was in part as follows:
Text—"Prepare to meet thy God."—Amos 4:12.

"It's a strange thing that people prepare for everything else and yet live and die without getting ready for eternity."

"An old colored man was one time asked if his master who had just died had gone to heaven. 'No sir,' he said, 'and why don't you think so?' 'Kase I've been living with massa for over thirty years, and he never went any place unless he done told me where he was gwine, and how long he was gwine for to stay, and what he wanted me to get ready, and what he wanted me to take. I've been with Massa now for thirty years, and I never heard him mention the name of heaven; and so I know he ain't dun gone to heaven wherever he's dun gone.'"

"There are men and women in this city, and hundreds of them, prominent in politics and in society, lawyers and doctors, and people of respectability, but if they should die tonight, and the papers announced their death in the morning, every man and woman in the city would know where they had gone."

"God forbid that I should make the cost of being a Christian one iota less than it really is, but I would make the first step as easy as I possibly can and here are two things to which if a man will give himself they will lead him out of the labyrinth of doubt and out of the bondage of sin into the clearest light and fullest freedom."

"First. Let him have an honest desire to know the truth. No man can have an intelligent opinion about everything and God doesn't expect it, but he ought to have just as far as possible. But there are a few things

PLATFORMS OF TWO PARTIES COMPARED

Working and Business Men May Readily Understand the Protective Planks.

The platforms of the Republicans and Democrats are not so complex in phraseology but a working or business man who can read may readily compare them to his own understanding. There is a difference between the two platforms which every voter should know about.

The Republican platform declares for a continuance of the protective tariff; the Democratic platform declares against a protective tariff and in favor of a tariff for revenue only.

Everybody does not understand what this means, but everybody should, because the failure to understand this difference in 1893 closed a great many factories, cut down wages all along the line, put thousands out of employment and opened a good many soup-houses.

The tariff of 1893 was the Wilson tariff, fathered by Professor Wilson, a Virginia college professor. The tariff recommended by the Democratic platform this year is supported by another college professor also named Wilson, coming from New Jersey. There never was a tariff platform prepared by college professors that did not result in injury to the workmen and business of the country. Put one of these college professors behind the merchant's counter and see how he would run the business. Put him in the shop, or at the bench, and see if he could fill a workman's place.

The difference between a protective tariff and a tariff for revenue is this: A protective tariff is, as its name implies, a tariff high enough to protect the American wage schedule and the American shop from the intrusion of the cheaper foreign labor or the products of the cheaper foreign shop. President McKinley explained this and the workmen and business men of the country understood him and supported him.

The Democratic platform declares that we have no constitutional right to protect the American wage-earner or the American shop or the American manufacturer by putting a tax on the products of foreign labor and that the only excuse for this tax is because we must levy it to secure the revenues to support our government.

TWO PEAS IN SAME POD.

Democratic Tariff Plank of 1892 a Twin to That of the Party Platform for 1912.

It would require a strong magnifying glass to find the difference between the Democratic tariff plank in 1892, which brought on the disastrous financial results in business to all classes of people during the Cleveland administration, and the plank which the Democrats ask the voters to support in 1912. It is the twin planks, as much alike as two peas in a pod, which cause the voter to look with both fear and suspicion on the proposition to restore the Democrats to power, especially since the Democracy insists that the tariff is the main issue. In 1892 the Democratic tariff plank said:

"We declare it to be a fundamental principle of the Democratic party that the Federal government has no constitutional power to impose and collect tariff duties except for the purposes of revenue only."

The Democratic tariff plank for 1912 reads:

"We declare it to be a fundamental principle of the Democratic party that the Federal government under the constitution has no right or power to impose or collect tariff duties except for the purpose of revenue."

Some Democrats claim the party is progressive, yet by its own declaration it has not advanced an inch in twenty years on an issue which its leaders claim is the most vital of any now before the people. No wonder thinking Democrats are taking alarm and uniting with a party that promises a continuance of the protective system under scientific guidance but with the assurance that the benefits will be equitably distributed.

EGGS HELP TO PASS PROSPERITY AROUND

Women on Indiana farms are convinced that Republican prosperity is being "passed around" when they compare the "egg money" they are receiving with the market price of this product back in 1896, when Democratic influences were cutting down egg prices and their buying power. Eggs this year have a much longer reach in the market for the farm woman when she goes to town for her home supplies. In 1896 thirty dozen eggs would buy 74 pounds of coffee, and that now she can buy 94 pounds; that in 1896 she could buy 137 pounds of rice and that now she can buy 285 pounds; that in 1896 she could buy 180 pounds of granulated sugar, and that now she can buy 251 pounds; that in 1896 she could buy 114 yards of cotton flannel, and that now she can buy with the same number of eggs 141 yards; that in 1896 she could buy 3 pairs of shoes; that now the same number of eggs will cover the price of five pairs of shoes. In fact, the buying power of eggs has since 1896 increased 90 per cent.

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY

Hoosier Poet Receives Loving Cup From Greenfield Children.

THE HOOSIER POET HONORED AT HOME

Greenfield's Welcome for James Whitcomb Riley.

Greenfield, Ind., Oct. 10.—Greeted by nearly every man, woman and child in town, James Whitcomb Riley came back to Greenfield and the "Old Swamin' Hole." The celebrated Hoosier poet arrived here in his automobile and was escorted down Main street through ranks of school children by a special committee and a band. As Mr. Riley passed down the line each child threw flowers in his automobile and when he reached the courthouse lawn the car was filled with roses, carnations and chrysanthemums. The poet was deeply touched by the demonstration for him in his old home town and at times he gently wiped away tears which he could not keep back. A loving cup was presented to him by the school children. His old friends were glad to see Mr. Riley in apparently much better health than he was some time ago.

Whole County Turned Out.

Greenfield wore the full robes of autumn generously entwined with Old Glory in store windows, in yards and along the streets were shocks of fodder decorated at the base with the richest golden pumpkins that Hancock county has produced. Quotations familiar to Riley were on nearly all of these. The old town band appeared, one member of which, John E. Davis, belonged to it in the years ago, when Jim Riley was the snare drummer and the organization was known as the Adelpian band. Gray-haired John Davis blew his alto horn with new zest when the band struck up old tunes familiar to the poet. Around the public square buggies and automobiles were massed, for all Hancock county was out to welcome and pay honor to Riley.

I Am Willing To Prove I Can Cure You

To That End I Am Giving Away $10,000 Worth of Medicine

In order to show beyond all doubt that I am in possession of a medicine that will cure kidney trouble, bladder trouble or rheumatism, I will this year give away ten thousand dollars' worth of this medicine, and anyone suffering from these diseases can get a box of it absolutely free. All that is necessary is to send me your address.

I don't mean that you are to use a part of it or all of it and pay me if cured. I mean that I will give you a box of this medicine absolutely free of charge, a gift from me to the Uric Acid sufferers of the world, so I can show them where and how they may be cured. I will not expect payment for this free medicine, nor would I accept it now or later if you sent it. It is free in the real meaning of the word.

For twenty-five years—a quarter of a century—I have been trying to convince the public that I have something genuine, something better than others have for the cure of such chronic rheumatism, for torturing kidney backache, for annoying calls to urinate. But it is hard to convince people—they try a few things unsuccessfully and give up and refuse to listen to anyone thereafter. Happily, I am in a position now to demonstrate to sufferers at my own expense that I have a medicine that cures these diseases. I don't ask them to spend any money to find out; I don't ask them to believe me; nor even to take the word of reliable people, but all I ask is that they allow me to send them the medicine at my own cost. That is surely fair.

To this end I have set aside ten thousand dollars, which will be used to compound my medicine. Much of it is ready now to be sent out, all of it fresh and standard. There will be enough for all sufferers, though there be thousands of them. And anyone who needs it can get some of it free. But in order that I shall know that you have a disease for which this medicine is intended, I ask you to send me some of your leading symptoms. If you have any of the symptoms in the list printed here you need my medicine and if you will write me I will gladly send you a box of it free with full directions for your use. Look the symptoms over, see which symptoms you have, then write me about as follows: "Dear Dr., I notice symptoms number—here put down the numbers, give your age, full address, and send it to me. My address is Dr. T. Frank Lynott, 571 Deagan Bldg., Chicago, Ill."

DR. T. FRANK LYNOTT who is giving away $10,000 worth of medicine.

will do that: I am promising to send any sufferer who writes me a box of this medicine and full directions free of charge, and I will do that. I can say further that this medicine has been vouched for according to law as complying in every detail with all requirements. It will stop rheumatism, it will stop pain and backache, it will stop too frequent desire to urinate, it will heal, soothe and strengthen. You will be better in every way for having taken it. There is not an ingredient that can injure; not one but will benefit. "All that I ask is that you use it yourself so that you may be personally convinced."

Owing to the large number of requests, I have had ten thousand more copies of my medical book printed. This book is new and up to date and contains complete descriptions, symptoms, causes, effects and cures of kidney, bladder and rheumatic diseases. All who write for the free medicine will be sent a copy of this grand illustrated medical book—the largest ever written on these diseases for free and general distribution. If you are anxious to be cured and don't want to spend any money LOOKING for cures, write me. Read the symptoms over and let me hear from you today.

These Are the Symptoms:

- 1.—Pain in the back.
- 2.—Too frequent desire to urinate.
- 3.—Burning or obstruction of urine.
- 4.—Pain or soreness in the bladder.
- 5.—Prostatic trouble.
- 6.—Gas or pain in the stomach.
- 7.—General debility, weakness, dizziness.
- 8.—Pain or soreness under right rib.
- 9.—Swelling in any part of the body.

- 12.—Pain in the hip joint.
- 13.—Pain in the neck or head.
- 14.—Pain or soreness in the kidneys.
- 15.—Pain or swelling of the joints.
- 16.—Pain or swelling of the muscles.
- 17.—Pain and soreness in nerves.
- 18.—Acute or chronic rheumatism.

COURT INSISTS ON EXPEDITION

No Delay Will Be Tolerated In Dynamite Trial.

JUDGE ADMONISHES LAWYERS

In Holding the Attorneys For the Defense Down to a Bare Presentation of Their Case, Judge Anderson Insisted That Defensive Arguments Had No Place at This Stage of the Hearing and Discouraged Delay.

Indianapolis, Oct. 10.—Witnesses for the government are being heard today, the attorneys for the defense in the dynamite case in federal court having completed their statements to the jury.

The first testimony offered by the government showed the finding of letters and other evidence at the offices of the iron workers, following the arrest of John J. McNamara on April 22, 1911, and the progress of this evidence until it came into the possession of the government. This was done to furnish the basis for the introduction of the letters later. Superintendent of Police Martin Hyland and others who figured in the search of the iron workers' headquarters, were among the first witnesses.

The tendency on the part of attorneys for individual clients to remain away from promises to show there was no general conspiracy, as charged, and the tendency to set out that they would introduce evidence to show that if any conspiracy existed, their own clients were not involved in such a conspiracy, were noticeable. Whether this portends a more serious "cutting loose" from the cause of the whole number of defendants remains to be seen as the case progresses. The principal effort was to try to show no entangling alliance with J. J. McNamara. The statements saw frequent interruptions by United States Attorney Miller, who contended that instead of making a statement of facts the attorneys were trying to argue the case. Judge Anderson at times also interrupted to admonish the attorneys to quit making arguments. At one time he told Attorney Langsdale, whom he had previously warned that he was frequently getting out of bounds, that he must stop it.

The court also directed District Attorney Miller to stop interrupting so frequently.

"This court wants to go ahead with this case," said Judge Anderson.

STOLEN BRIDLE

May Furnish a Clue to Detection of Lena Murder.

Brazil, Ind., Oct. 10.—Detectives working on the Daniel Newton murder case at Lena made the statement that it is their belief that the guilty man will be captured soon.

Bloodhounds traced the murderer to the barn belonging to William Parr, a farmer, living southwest of Lena. Here a bridle was stolen and the course followed by the hounds showed that the murderer had tried to catch a horse. At the Harmony traction station Harry Altman and Earl Bell talked with a stranger, believed to be the guilty man. He was anxious to get out of town and asked the boys what time the next car left. His actions were suspicious and he asked the conductor to be allowed to ride in the front vestibule with the motorman. When refused he rode on the rear seat of the car and pulled his cap down over his face.

The Wheels Suddenly Skidded.

Elkhart, Ind., Oct. 10.—Hurled from an overturned automobile while speeding toward this city to attend a funeral, Thomas Stroupp, aged forty, of Mishawaka, was instantly killed and Fred Abbrell, thirty years old, driver of the car, fatally injured a few miles southwest of this city. Stroupp's neck was broken. Abbrell's sides were crushed in, every rib broken and his skull fractured. Abbrell was driving at a high rate of speed, when the wheels suddenly skidded.

Indicts Crumley For Murder.

Covington, Ind., Oct. 10.—The special grand jury called to investigate the murder of Mrs. Anna Crumley, returned a true bill against Gilbert Crumley, her husband. He is charged with murder in the first degree. He will plead not guilty when arraigned. Crumley is accused of beating his wife to death at Attica.

Suicide of City Marshal.

Decatur, Ind., Oct. 10.—D. M. Atkinson, city marshal, committed suicide by placing the muzzle of a shotgun in his mouth and then pulling the trigger. The top of his head was blown off. No motive is known unless it was because a prisoner escaped from the city jail a few days ago.

Fatal Fall From Ladder.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 10.—George R. Venis, shoe dealer and ex-city councilman, is dead as the result of a broken neck received in a fall from a ladder in his store.

Child Killed Beneath Wagon.

Wabash, Ind., Oct. 10.—The six-year-old daughter of Lincoln Freeman was killed here when she fell beneath the wheels of a wagon.

KANSAS IS REPUBLICAN

Roosevelt Strength Among Voters Is Decreasing Perceptibly Throughout State.

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 23.—Notwithstanding the enthusiasm which has always existed in Kansas for Theodore Roosevelt, it is undeniable that his strength as a presidential candidate is decidedly waning throughout the state.

If he were the candidate of the Republican party, and if there were a chance of his election, he would, of course, sweep the state without any serious opposition. But neither of those conditions exists. The fact that his own leaders have been obliged to yield to the wave of indignant protest which swept against them on account of their effort to have Roosevelt's electors placed in the Republican column has not only proven the strength of the Taft sentiment, but it has eliminated all possibility of Roosevelt carrying the state. The withdrawal of his electors from the Republican columns has emphasized the fact that he is not the Republican candidate; and Kansas is too well satisfied with the conditions which have prevailed during the past sixteen years to follow any man, however popular he may be, out of the Republican party.

The Roosevelt sentiment has been further weakened by the universal conviction that there is no possibility of his election and that the only effect his candidacy can possibly have is to, expose the country to the danger of a Democratic victory. Kansas is as far from being a Democratic state as it ever was and with the substantial collapse of the Roosevelt campaign, this state will be found in its accustomed place near the head of the Republican column.

LOSING IN NEBRASKA.

Progressive Party Will Die Before Election Day Comes Around.

Reports from Nebraska show that the Roosevelt sentiment is decreasing. "The Third Term party," says one letter to Director Mulvane of the western bureau of the Taft campaign, "is dwindling down to Pops."

James H. Clark of Hastings, Neb., president of a large company which handles investments, securities and farm mortgages, and who has exceptional opportunity to know the feeling among the farmers, says that in Nebraska the farmers are beginning to realize that if they followed Roosevelt they will land nowhere, and if they allow a Democratic president to be elected, they will be ruined.

In Lincoln, Neb., the Third Term party had difficulty in securing even two hundred and fifty signers to a petition for their county convention. "The Progressive party will die before election," says one report. "Sentiment is looking better for Taft every day."

CANVASS OF INDIANA

It Shows That the Roosevelt Movement Is Now on the Decline.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 30.—A careful canvass has been made of the Roosevelt sentiment in every county in this state. The inquiry was started by a prominent business man of this city, who was anxious to learn for himself the true condition of affairs. He sent out a large number of letters to men in each of the counties who were not politicians and would have no incentive to falsify the situation. The replies showed that in every county in the state, with one exception, there had been a marked decrease in the Roosevelt sentiment. The opinion was universally expressed that the Third Term candidate had fewer followers now in Indiana than at any time since the campaign opened and this number was steadily decreasing. A few of these reports summarized are as follows:

White county—"Ours is an agricultural community and the farmers all seem satisfied with conditions and are not calling for a change. I see no evidence of Bull Mooseism spreading. On the contrary, it is weaker than at first."

Steuben county—"The Third Termers are on the down grade and will not be as strong a month later as they are now."

Lake county—"Sentiment for the Progressives is weakened, especially among the farmers. Sentiment is growing more and more favorable to the administration."

Montgomery county—"The Bull Moose sentiment here is waning. The Third Term party is losing as the campaign progresses."

De Kalb county—"There will not be many Bull Moose voters here. Taft will get some Democratic votes—quite a number."

Miami county—"The changes are now coming all our way. There are no more desertions from the Republican ranks."

Tipton county—"The Bull Moose sentiment is subsiding." Reports from Allen and La Grange counties are to the same effect.

SLIDING BACK IN NEVADA

Roosevelt Has Reached His Limit and Is Rapidly Receding.

Reno, Nev., Sept. 26.—The decline of the Roosevelt movement, noticeable throughout the country, is very apparent in Nevada.

"The interest in the Bull Moose movement is crystallized in Roosevelt," says the Evening Gazette, "and that interest is waning." The Gazette further states that Roosevelt's disappointing speech in this state, the fact that he is receiving funds from George W. Perkins and is being supported only by cast-off politicians, are drag-stones about his neck. The Gazette sums up the situation in Nevada as follows:

"Roosevelt has reached the limit of his power and is sliding back rapidly."

Not to Emulate T. R.

In answer to a letter from Medill McCormick, national vice-chairman, Chauncey Dewey, chairman, and Harold L. Iokes, secretary, of the Illinois Progressive Committee, suggesting a series of five triangular debates for the discussion of the issues of the Republican, Democratic and Progressive parties, but with the condition that "the qualifications, personalities and records of Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Wilson and Mr. Taft are not to be considered or referred to," Director Mulvane, in charge of the Western bureau of the Republican National campaign, today replied as follows:

"I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of September 30th in which you propose a series of five triangular debates upon the issues of the Republican, Democratic and Progressive parties. You make it a condition of acceptance that 'the qualifications, personalities and records of Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Wilson and Mr. Taft are not to be considered or referred to.'

"The campaign which has been in served the proprietries. It has progress for some weeks has been unfortunately characterized by bitter personalities, although neither President Taft nor Governor Wilson has offended in this respect. President

Sam Sanderson Says:

That the girl with the "plain" face can always draw attention the other way by wearing white shoes and stockings.

And while Mr. Wilson is studying up the high cost of living, which he says is due to the protective tariff, it would be a fine thing for him to examine the report of the London Board of Trade, which, after a minute inquiry into details, discovered and proclaimed the fact that the American workman is not only better paid, but that on the whole he lives as cheaply as the British workers.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

HONOR IN POLITICS.

(Muncie Press.)

A few days ago the Hon Hiram Johnson, governor of California, was in Indiana preaching civic righteousness of the bull moose brand. And now in Johnson's own state, in the area of his own influence, we have an exemplification or just what bull moose righteousness is. Owing to a program of scoundrelism unequalled in the history of American politics Republicans in that state are denied the right to vote the Republican ticket. The members of the new party in that state, in violation of the ordinary dictates of decency and honesty, insisted on participating in the election of delegates to the state convention of the Republican party, which they claim to have abandoned. In states having effective primary laws, the intrusion of men into the caucuses and primaries of parties to which they do not belong is a crime, —and morally it is a crime in California. By participating as bull moosers in Republican primaries the progressive bosses in California managed with the aid of the state political machine to control the state convention of a party they have abandoned. To make possible the success of their crooked scheme to disfranchise the republicans of the state, the California bosses caused the enactment of a primary law which makes it impossible for the Republicans to have any sort of representation on the ballot. This disfranchisement of the Republicans of California is an exhibition of dishonor on the part of the bull moose machine in California that is without parallel in all of the long record of political crookedness in this country.

However, this same dishonesty permeates the methods of the bull moose bosses in Indiana, and in Delaware county. Here these bosses and their local organs have insisted on men disloyal to the Republican party remaining on the Republican county committee in order that they may spy upon and betray the Republican cause. They have maliciously lied about an organization of real Republicans engaged in the support of the whole Republican ticket. The Eighth district in its day has seen some pretty crooked politics, but never before anything so disreputable as the dirty work that has been attempted by the gang of soreheads and castoff politicians who are directing the affairs of the "Uplift" movement in Delaware county, and the newspaper which in its puerile way has sought to defend them. There crooked methods have opened the eyes of hundreds of honest and sincere men who under other circumstances would have then inclined to follow them. The election results in Delaware county will demonstrate that perfidy and dishonor do not pay in politics.

CURTAIN WILL BE RUNG DOWN SUNDAY

Final Game of Season on Local Lot
With Indianapolis Merits as Attraction.

AVERY IN BOX FOR VISITORS

The final ball game of the season on the local lot will be played Sunday when the Indianapolis Merits will meet the locals. It will positively be the last game here this year. Considerable interest is being shown in the game because "Chick" Avery, who pitched a majority of the Rushville games this year will be in the box for the Merits. Local fans need no introduction to "Chick" as his work is too well known. Avery has high hopes of beating his former team mates and with Halterman pitching for Rushville, it should prove one of the best games of the season.

The Merits have a great record this year having defeated such teams as Alexandria, Delphi, the Reserves and lost to Bedford 1 to 0 with Avery in the box. In this game Chick allowed only three hits. A week from Sunday the locals will journey to Richmond for a game with the K. I. O. league team of that city.

CORN HUSK LIGHT; MILD WINTER DUE

Old Sign That Forecasts Season of Medium Temperature is Apparent This Fall.

IT IS TO BE HOPED ANYWAY

In view of the high price of fuel it is encouraging to learn that at least some of the signs that are held to indicate mild winters are in evidence. In fact many people who make more or less of a study of this question are insisting that the coming winter will be a mild one. They say that the husk on the corn is exceptionally scant this year and that other signs indicate that the winter will be a mild one.

Some there are who settle this question, in their own minds at least, by the amount of fur on fur bearing animals. It is said that it is yet too early to determine anything definite from this source. Anyway, every body is hoping that the coming winter will be a mild one and therefore are, perhaps, more ready to believe in the reputed signs than at times when the severity of mildness of the winters is not of such vital concern to them as now.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Detective's Conscience" the first picture at the Princess tonight is a powerful Lubin drama. The other is an Essanay comedy entitled "The Brown's Have Visitors."

Warren Kerrigan in the American drama "The Girl Back Home" a story of an untold love and a woman's envy. The other is a Solax featuring Billy Quirk and his trick dog, are the pictures at the Palace tonight. Monday night this theater will show the famous "Blackhand Picture."

Madame Nazimova, now under Charles Frohman's management, will be seen at English's Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday matinee in "The Marionettes," a comedy adapted from the French. The original play is from the pen of Pierre Wolff and concerns itself with the affairs of a young country girl, fresh from a convent, who marries a gay Parisian. To the husband, the marriage is one only of convenience, and he makes no pretense of loving his wife, whom he finds to be very quiet, very awkward and not at all fitted for the Parisian life. The girl, however, really falls in love with her husband, and, in order to induce a similar feeling on his part, she undertakes the task of becoming the sort of woman, outwardly at least, that seems to attract him. To this end dressmakers transform her and her own ingenuity does the rest. Paris begins to take notice of her—and subsequently, her husband follows suit. The end comes when he is on his knees before her. Supporting Madame Nazimova will be seen Frank Gillmore, Arthur Lewis, Edward Fielding, Kate Meek and others.

Among the most important engagements of the season at English's will be that of Fritz Scheff, who appears at this playhouse October 14, 15 and 16 in a new light opera, "The Love Wager." She will be followed by Thomas W. Ross in "The Only Son."

LOST—Either on the down town street or at tabernacle a gold dollar tie pin. Return to Earl Conaway and receive reward. 181t4.

The Sable Lorcha

BY
Horace Hazeltine

(Copyright, 1912, A. C. McClure & Co.)
Had I not played tennis and golf with Cameron scores of times on hot summer days when, with shirt sleeves rolled above his elbows, his forearms were bared to view? Could there by any possibility have been a tattoo mark there, and I not have seen it?

Mr. Bryan came quickly, a little puzzled, seemingly, at being called to such an audience. Purposely I kept silence, merely waving an introductory word toward the two Chinamen.

Yup Sing tactfully explained the situation.

"A question has arisen, Mr. Bryan," he said, with more of suavity in his tone than I had hitherto observed, "whether by any chance your patient has a mark of any character whatever tattooed upon his left forearm. If you have observed such, we shall be glad if you will kindly describe it."

The nurse flung a questioning glance at me, and I nodded reassuringly. I did not wonder that he was surprised at the question.

"Is there, or is there not, such a mark?" the Oriental urged.

"There is, yes, sir."

I think, involuntarily, I started forward. I know that for just a breath I thought my ears had played me a trick. Then, suddenly, there swept back across my memory that expression of Checkabeedy's: "Who between you and me, sir, I don't trust, nohow." Could it be possible that Bryan was in the conspiracy? But only for the briefest moment did this doubt sway amid the welter of my thoughts. Into its place rolled an amazement that shocked and stunned; that checked me all standing, as it were; for Bryan was amplifying, was telling about the mark, which he had first noticed he said, on the night of his arrival, and which he had examined more closely on several occasions since.

"It's evidently a representation of some sort of sailing vessel," he explained, "with a curved hull and a single broad sail. And below it are three letters: D. M. N."

Blindly I clutched the back of a chair with both hands, for a sense of unreality oppressed me, and the room itself became waveringly unsubstantial.

It was not true, of course, that Bryan was saying. Nothing was true. Nothing was real. It was all a nightmare; and the two gloating yellow masks were horrible dream faces.

"And you have probably noticed a scar—a long livid scar?"

It was Yup Sing's voice I heard. He was still questioning the nurse. And now Bryan would make another posterous answer, just as persons always do in dreams. I knew he would. So when he said: "Yes, sir, just between the left shoulder blade and the spinal column. It looks as though it were the mark of a deep and vicious knife slash," I was not in the least surprised.

Checkabeedy brought me back to a realization of time and place. He spoke my name in a half-whisper and I awoke again to realities with a start.

"The officers are here, sir," he informed me, matter-of-factly.

"The officers?" I repeated, and then, memory reasserting itself, I added: "Oh, yes, of course. Ask them to wait just a moment, Checkabeedy."

Into the mental marshalling of facts which ensued there came a vivid memory of that weird scene in the sick-chamber when Cameron had raved in a strange tongue, mingled with words of pidgin-English and a few phrases—

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL

Health is Worth Saving, and Some
Rushville People Know How to Save it.

Many Rushville people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Weak kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health—the slightest delay is dangerous. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—a remedy that has helped thousands of kidney sufferers. Here is a Rushville citizen's recommendation.

Mrs. Ella Endicott, 125 South Harrison street, Rushville, Ind., says: "We have used Doan's Kidney Pills in our family with good results. A member of the family suffered from severe pains through his back and had difficulty in straightening after stooping. His kidneys were also irregular in action. Finally he used Doan's Kidney Pills and they corrected the troubles."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

incriminating phrases, in the light of tonight's revelation—of vigorous vernacular. If what Bryan had said was true—and for him to lie about a matter as readily demonstrable was hardly to be considered—I must conclude myself beaten at all points. From first to last, then, I had been defending a creature unworthy of defense.

It was difficult to accept this conclusion. Mind and heart alike were arrayed against it. Yet, thinking clearly now, I recognized fully the position in which I had placed myself. I had been willing to swear, to wager, there was no tattoo mark, and the best evidence—my own witness—had proved me wrong. Certainly I could expect no mild judgment from these Asiatics. Honest as I had been, they must believe that I had known, and had meant to deceive them. They probably thought that I had signalled to Bryan to endorse me in my lies, and that the nurse had either misunderstood or openly rebelled.

Before Checkabeedy had reached the door, I recalled him.

"On second thought," I said, "the officers need not wait. Tell them that it was a mistake. I shall not require them."

Turning to Yup Sing and his companion, I added:

"What Mr. Bryan has told you is the greatest surprise to me. Even yet I can scarcely believe it, unless the mark and the scar were obtained while my friend was a prisoner in the hands of your countrymen."

"Tattoo marks and scars show age no less than faces," the merchant replied. "Both of these are years old. Any capable judge of such things will tell you that. Possibly Mr. Bryan can tell."

"The scar is not a fresh one," said the nurse. "As to tattoo marks, I am not experienced; but I shouldn't think the mark on Mr. Cameron's arm was put there recently."

"Gentlemen," I said, making a final stand, "while I do not question Mr. Bryan's entire honesty in this matter, nevertheless I prefer to see these marks of identification, myself. If you will excuse us for five minutes, I shall not be longer."

At the foot of the grand staircase, Evelyn joined me. Bryan, at my suggestion, went to the elevator and ascended that way, while she and I slowly climbed the broad, velvet-carpeted marble steps to the floor above.

"I thought you were never coming out of that room," she declared, nervously. "Once, I was on the verge of going after you. The first time you rang for Checkabeedy, I mean."

What did you have him telephone for? He absolutely refused to tell me. Was it the two policemen? . . . What did you want them for? . . . Why did you let them go away again? . . . Aren't those Chinamen ever going? . . . What on earth did you want Mr. Bryan? . . . What are you going upstairs for, now?"

How tactfully I answered these questions and others I shall not attempt to decide. I know only that I set my teeth to guard the one problem which absorbed me, and which for worlds I would not have her know.

"It is all right, Evelyn," I assured her, over and over again. "There is not the smallest danger. . . . They came to give me information. . . . You must be very tired, little girl. . . . Go to bed, now, and forget it all until morning. . . . Yes, I'll tell you everything, then."

I wonder how many women there are who, burning with curiosity as she was, would have obliged me as she did! Is it pardonable, then, if again I say that throughout all this trying experience she proved herself a girl of a thousand?

Bryan was waiting for me in the passage outside Cameron's door.

"I left him sleeping," he explained, "and, if possible, I don't wish to disturb him; so we'll go in quietly together."

Slowly and with infinite care lest he make the least noise he turned the knob. Quite as cautiously he opened the door, and tiptoeing softly, we entered.

It was the first time I had been in the room since the day of that terrible outburst, and it still held for me an atmosphere as gressomely forbidding as that of a tomb.

Only one lowered light burned, over a tall, antique bureau between the darkly curtained windows: the chamber was in semi-gloom. But scarcely had I passed Bryan, who stopped to close the door with the same adroit silence with which he had accomplished its opening, than a stealthily moving white figure defined itself, issuing, apparently from a massive carved wardrobe, which stood against the wall opposite the huge, tattered bed.

The spectacle was at least arresting. I know I halted abruptly as if stricken all at once with total paralysis. For a heart-beat or two I think I stopped breathing. But my eyes meanwhile were strained fixedly upon the apparition, and seeing it pass with almost incredible swiftness beneath the one dim light above the bureau, I recognized Cameron.

At the same moment the room was flooded with a sudden glare. Bryan too, had seen, and had switched on the electric. Simultaneously he flashed past me and was at his patient's side.

"What does this mean?" I heard him say. "What did you want? Can't I trust you alone for ten minutes? I told you, Cameron, that you must not leave your bed unless I am with you."

I saw Cameron cower under the upbraiding. In his eyes I read terror, and all my sympathy was aroused on this instant. Bryan might be carrying out Dr. Massey's orders, but he appeared to me unnecessarily harsh.

"What were you doing?" he insisted; and then I saw him roughly grasp his patient's arm, and hold it up, revealing a tightly clenched hand.

"Mr. Bryan!" I cried in remonstrance. "Gently, gently. Remember—"

But the nurse paid small heed to me. He was busy opening the doubled fist.

I stood now where I could look Cameron squarely in the face, but my gaze was elsewhere. It was his left hand over which Bryan was engaged, and from his wrist to his elbow the sleeve of his white night robe had been pushed back, exposing a sinewy forearm, marked precisely as Bryan had described it.

Scrutinizingly I bent forward. The tattooing was indisputable, and, as the nurse had said, it bore no evidence of being recent work.

Up to that moment I had hoped against hope that in some way or other a misconception had occurred. I had hoped, I suppose, for the performance of some miracle which would exonerate this man. And now that hope was obliterated by those blue-pricked letters D. M. N. beneath an almost exact facsimile of the black smudge which had taken the place of signature on each of the three threatening letters—the black smudge, of which Cameron, wearing it then indelibly upon the cuticle, had dared to feign utter ignorance.

And yet, I asked myself once more, how was it that I had never noticed it before? Again and again I had seen that forearm bared. Surely I would have observed so odd a mark; certainly I would have been perplexed by those three unflitting initials.

"There, now!" Bryan was saying. "Back to bed with you, Cameron. What did you want this letter for, anyway? If it was necessary for you to have it, couldn't I have got it for you?"

"Give it back to me!" Cameron was pleading, piteously. "Give it back to me! It is a private matter. Give it back to me, or destroy it before my eyes. Burn it, here, before me."

"Let me have it, Mr. Bryan," I asked, and turning to the unhappy gentleman I said: "You'll trust me, won't you, Cameron? I'll destroy it, unread, if you wish it."

"No, no, no," he objected, earnestly. "Give it back to me."

But even as he demanded it, Bryan put it in my hands; and spreading it out—for it had been crumpled to a pellet in the invalid's clutch—I was about to humor him, when the superscription caught my eye and held it.

The envelope bore the name and address: "Donald McNish, Taylor's Hotel, New York City, U. S. A."

CHAPTER XXIV.

Another Problem Crops Up.

There are, I dare say, those who will not hesitate to charge me with an unpardonable lack of perception. "Even from your own telling," they will probably declare, "we realized from the first that the creature you discovered at two in the morning, supporting himself by means of a Fifth avenue area railing, was not Robert Cameron, but his physical counterpart, and a not very deceptive counterpart at that."

I shall not dispute the justice of the criticism. As I look back at it all now, I sometimes wonder, myself, how I could have been so blind, so credulous. And yet there is something to be said on the other side, too. An able advocate, I believe, might make out a fairly strong case for me if I were disposed to defend myself; which, as it happens, I am not, since the verdict can make no possible difference either to you or to me, and would only delay the culmination of our narrative.

Nevertheless I must tell that for some minutes after reading the letter which had so opportunely fallen into my hands I stood at the foot of the bed, and in the glare of the blazing electric, studied with keenest scrutiny the face which had so deceived me.

In general contour and individual feature the likeness to Cameron was monstrous in its fidelity. The same rugged power, inherited from Scottish forbears, was traceable in every lineament. But there the similarity ended. The face I gazed upon lacked illumination. Character, so strongly indicated in the other, was from this totally absent. In its place was an admixture of craft and brutality, so palpable, now—so clearly, unmistakably evident—that I marvelled at my former delusion.

It was the newspaper puzzle picture

over again. Having at length discovered the hidden rabbit I could see nothing else whatever. It dominated the drawing. It fairly sprang at me from out the printed page.

There was still another feature of the revelation, however, which held a contrasting pathos. The letter which carried conviction beyond all possible dispute was from Donald McNish's aged mother. And while it tempered in a measure the harshness of my judgment against the son, it was of tragic import, in that it was one potent piece of evidence in his undoing, severing the last link in the chain which connected his identity with that of the shamefully maligned Cameron. Evelyn wept over this letter, and I am not sure but that my own sight grew hazy, too, as I read the fond, quaintly couched phrases of endearment, penned half a year back in Dundee, by this God-fearing old Scotchwoman, to that infamous, blood-stained reprobate, who, to her, was still her "ain bonnie bairn."

It all came out, eventually, that McNish had traveled the world over in the sixteen years intervening since the coolie massacre, employing a score or more of aliases and so studiously avoiding the name by which he had then been known, as to have almost forgotten it, probably, himself, until, yielding to the call of home, he had at some early period of the last twelve-month returned for a brief visit to his native town and his septuagenarian mother.

It was then, most likely, that he gave to her the address of the New York hotel. Fate influenced the mother to write, and Fate sent the son there six months later to get the letter, and so carry upon his person the confirmatory evidence of his identity, just at the time when it would prove fatal.

"How did it happen," I have been asked, "that you didn't examine immediately the clothes that the supposed Cameron wore, when you found him?"

In view of subsequent events it is very easy to see what an important bearing such an examination would have had. But at the time, there was no one who thought of it. Our chief purpose then was to get the injured man to bed, and to secure a physician and nurse to minister to his recovery. If he had been found dead, then, of course, we should have gleaned what information we could from his pockets. But we daily expected him to be able to tell his own story, and in the anxiety and confusion of the moment the possible pregnancy of the disclosures that lurked in his apparel was entirely lost sight of.

When we did make the examination, on the morning following the episode of the letter, it was to discover that the suit and overcoat worn by McNish were of Scotch manufacture, having been made in Dundee, according to seven-in labels, early in the current year.

To be continued.

Mrs. Paul Wehling, 316 Smith St., Peoria, Ill., had kidney and bladder trouble, with terrible backache and pain across the hips. Just imagine her condition. She further says: "I was also very nervous, had headache and dizzy spells, and was fast getting worse when I took Foley Kidney Pills, and now all my troubles are cured. Foley Kidney Pills have done so much for me I shall always recommend them." F. B. Johnson & Co.

BUTTER'S BUYING POWER FOR THE FARM WOMEN

Every farm woman who trades her butter for groceries, for clothing, for home furnishings, would not willingly go back to the discouraging market conditions of 1896, when twenty pounds of butter had far less purchasing power, or exchange value, than in the prosperous Republican year of 1912. Figures based on Government reports show that in 1896 twenty pounds of butter would purchase 37 pounds of coffee, and that now it will purchase 46 pounds; that in 1896 it would purchase 69 pounds of rice, and that now it will purchase 140 pounds; that in 1896 it would purchase 6 barrels of salt, and that now it will purchase 7 barrels; that in 1896 it would purchase 90 pounds of granulated sugar, and that now it will purchase 123 pounds; that in 1896 it would purchase 13 pounds of tea, and that now it will purchase 28 pounds; that in 1896 it would purchase 4 yards of Brussels carpet, and that now it will purchase 5 yards, and so on down through the list of everything the farm woman has to buy. In other words, the buying power of twenty pounds of butter has increased 86 per cent.

PROCTOR LIQUOR LAW A SERPENT

Democratic Legislature Gave the People Measure Framed By Brewery Interests.

Governor Marshall, Democratic candidate for Vice-President, in his speeches in Indiana, has been "pointing with pride" to the last Legislature to prove that it had been a very efficient body. The Fort Wayne News says that when Marshall was calling off this list of presumably beneficent laws, he failed utterly to even so much as suggest that law which this glorious Legislature devoted the major portion of its time. The News says:

"He made no reference whatsoever to the Proctor liquor law, and he thereby gave to the public for the first time his real and honest opinion of that law which was made in Fort Wayne under the personal supervision of Steve Fleming and rammed through a brewery-owned Legislature by the representatives of the brewery trust. In his enumeration of the statutes he considered praiseworthy Governor Marshall did not damn the Proctor law with faint praise but he double damned it by mentioning it not at all."

"Governor Marshall knows that law for what it really is—a fraud, a farce, and a cheap pretense. He knows that it is the serpent the people were given when they asked for fish and the stone they received when they begged for bread. He knows that it is a law adroitly framed to say apparently one thing, yet to mean something altogether different; a law designed and calculated to continue and entrench those ancient abuses of the liquor traffic that have made it an offense in the eyes of the people of this State."

"Governor Marshall knows all this and knowing it he does not stoop to the stultification that would fall upon him by a public endorsement of that which he knows is a fraud and a sham."

"I DON'T LIKE TAFT."

(South Bend Tribune.)

"I don't like Taft and I shall not vote for him."

This is the thoughtless utterance of scores of men who would be insulted were their adherence to the Republican party questioned or doubt cast upon the sincerity of their allegiance to that party; and yet it is not a fact that that very utterance proves their disloyalty, unintentional though it be, and has its influence in inviting policies which it is known will result most disastrously for their country? The men who insist they are Republicans but will not vote for Taft simply because they do not like him are assuming an attitude most of them would not take if they would but weigh the situation carefully. Let them ask themselves these questions and see if they would not answer themselves with these replies:

"Am I really a Republican?"
"Well, I should say I am. Why, my father and my grandfather were Republicans and I couldn't be anything else and be true to my conscience and my beliefs of how our great American government should be run."

"By the way, what are my beliefs?"
"Well, first of all, I believe in a tariff. By that I mean a tariff that will produce a revenue and besides that protect every industry that needs protection because that means the protection of the man who works in that industry against the competition of lower wages of the foreign countries. Then I believe in the constitution. I believe, too, that my party represents all that is highest and best for us as a nation because I know that under my party's policies my country has prospered exceptionally."

"Well, but I don't like Taft and I don't want to vote for him."

"That may be true, but don't I read our newspaper although I don't like its editor, but do like the paper's policy? Don't I pay my grocery house a good sum every month although I fairly hate the owner, but he sells good goods and gives honest weight? Don't I patronize Dr. Jones although I don't like him, but I have confidence in his ability?"

TIE GAME ENDED IN THE TWILIGHT

Giants and Red Sox Go 11 Innings to a Tie.

A FIERCELY FOUGHT CONTEST

Few Games in the History of the Sport Ever Have Hummed With More Aggressive Action Than Did This Drawn Battle Between the Giants and the Red Sox, Respective Champions of the Two Big Leagues.

Boston, Oct. 10.—The second game of the world's series between the Giants and Red Sox was a fiercely fought contest, and it ended in the twilight, eleventh inning, a tie with a score of 6 to 6. It hummed with aggressive action, no world's series, and few of any other kind equalling it in that regard.

The national commission's figures for attendance and receipts are as follows: Total paid attendance, 30,148; total receipts, $58,369; players' share, $31,519.26; each club's share, $10,506.42; national commission's share, $5,336.90.

The two teams went at it hammer and tongs from the start. The lead swung back and forth, which added to the excitement already feverish because of the hard hitting with which the game abounded and the brilliant fielding and ragged fielding. The Giants battled their way from behind and with the utmost tenacity hung on to the Red Sox until they had snatched the lead away from them in the eighth inning. Fully as tenacious, the Red Sox replied with heavy fire and tied the Giants in the eighth inning and again in the tenth. The scoring ceased with the tenth inning.

It was the battle-scarred veteran Mathewson whom McGraw chose to face the heavy hitting Red Sox and stop in their determination to go straight down the line, winning victories. At recurrent periods Matty was bumped savagely by the Red Sox, but he stood up to the punishment like a major and with stout heart came back with the best he had and survived more than one dangerous situation. He had his usual good control and that helped him, and he also used his fade-away advantage several times, but when the Red Sox did hit him they everlastingly made the sphere sing and shriek as it clove a line to distant points.

Boston Pitcher Knocked Out.

Not an iota less ruthless was the batting of the Giants. The Giants had the satisfaction of knocking one Boston pitcher out of the box. Ray Collins, the southpaw pride of the Hub, was forced to vacate the eminence in the eighth inning, so vehement was New York's onslaught in that period.

An error by Lewis, however, a muffed fly, opened the way to the slugging solace which rocked Collins from his throne, and it was a costly error. Yet it was Boston's only error. The Red Sox out-fielded the Giants. They were steadier, but showed no more fire in the brilliant fielding plays, which came often. The only inexpensive New York mislay was a muffed foul by Merkle. Fletcher was the weak spot in the New York fortress. His errors were extremely costly. In truth, five Boston runs can be traced directly to the transgressions of the shortstop. He muffed a liner and lost a chance for a double play; he muffed a throw to stop a steal, and he let a grounder go through him. There were men on bases every time he did these things, and the men on base scored.

As the battle tightened in the latter innings there was much manipulation of forces and deploying of the reserves by the rival managers. McGraw's moves in the transfer line served well, even if they did not enable him to win. Stahl displayed nice judgment at knowing just the right moment to take a pitcher out and his dismissal of Collins in the eighth was summary.

Larry Gardner was slammed full in the face by a hot grounder of Meyer's propulsion, but he stuck to his post. In the tenth inning Speaker hit a hot one to the center field boundary. It flew back to Becker, who relayed it to Shafer. Speaker tried for a home run and reached the goal only because Wilson muffed the throw-in on the bound. Speaker was angry all over when he got up, declaring that Herzog had tried to block him at third base, and when the inning was over started out toward Herzog. Larry Doyle met him half way and acted as peacemaker. The incident caused no little commotion, but it was the only sign of ill feeling.

LITTLE HOPE FOR PEACE IN BALKANS

Note of the Powers Not Well Received.

London, Oct. 10.—From the latest dispatches received from the near east, it seems certain that the note of the European powers was not well received by the Balkan allies to whom it was addressed and that its terms with regard to reforms in Macedonia and the guarantees for the carrying out of the reforms are not satisfactory to the governments of the Balkan states.

A dispatch from Sofia says it is probable that Bulgaria will not reply to the note on the ground that she does not consider that the tenor of the note is such as to demand an answer. The premier still professes to be for peace, but has not slackened in his preparations for war.

King Nicholas of Montenegro issued a proclamation to his people and to his army in which he characterizes the war on which Montenegro has embarked as a "holy undertaking." That the Montenegrins have begun an invasion of Turkey, following their declaration of war, appears to be confirmed, and with this news the hope for peace which has been kept up among the powers was almost if not quite abandoned. The Montenegrins attacked a Turkish position opposite Podgoritza and after four hours of artillery firing the Turks abandoned the heights of Planinitza. After winning this victory the Montenegrins advanced to assault a fortified position at Detchitch. The Turks received reinforcements and the battle was still continuing at the time of the last advices received.

A NEW LIGHT ON CAMPAIGN FUNDS

Additional Testimony Concerning 1904 Contributions.

TAFT'S BROTHER TESTIFIES

Among Those Called Before the Clapp Committee Was Charles P. Taft, Who Told of His Contributions to the Campaign of 1908 and This Year—Further Details of the Big Fund Raised by E. H. Harriman.

Washington, Oct. 10.—To the Clapp committee Dan R. Hanna of Cleveland testified that he gave $177,000 to Theodore Roosevelt's pre-convention campaign this year. To the Roosevelt national committee he gave $50,000; to Walter F. Brown, for the Ohio campaign, $50,000, and for state organization in Ohio, $77,000.

Charles P. Taft, the president's brother, told the committee he contributed $250,000 to the national campaign in 1908 and that $150,000 was returned. He also contributed $40,000 to the Ohio campaign.

"I thought my brother was fitted for the presidency," said Mr. Taft, "and if elected I wanted him to walk into the White House without obligation to any great interests or corporations. On that basis, I was prepared to go the limit."

Mr. Taft testified that his contributions to the president's campaign for renomination totaled $213,592.

Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the executive committee of the United Pacific railroad, in his testimony before the committee, definitely fixed the amount of the Harriman fund in 1904 at $250,000. Lovett was able to state the amount with definiteness because he turned the contribution over to Cornelius N. Bliss, treasurer of the Republican national committee. After the money had come into the hands of Harriman in the form of individual checks and cash, he turned the contributions over to Lovett, as he (Harriman) was going to his country place that afternoon, with instructions that when Bliss called Lovett should turn over the money, which he did.

According to the testimony of Lovett, a large part of the amount raised by Mr. Harriman was represented by brokers' checks. This plan was used to conceal the name of the contributors. As a man who was the intimate business associate of Harriman for many years, Lovett testified that there could be no doubt that Roosevelt sent for Harriman and urged him to raise this money. He related that he had had many conversations with Harriman on this point, and that the railroad magnate was always emphatic in stating that he was asked by the president to undertake to raise this enormous campaign fund on the eve of the election. Lovett testified that he was acquainted with all of the movements of Harriman at the time this money was raised; he knew of his invitation to the White House; he knew of his going, and he knew of his raising the money after he returned from his visit to President Roosevelt.

Former United States Senator Nathan B. Scott of West Virginia, who was a member of the executive committee of the Republican national committee in 1904, and who was at headquarters in New York regularly until within about three weeks before the election, testified that some time in October he suggested to Bliss that if he would go down to No. 26 Broadway (the office of the Standard Oil company), he could doubtless get a contribution. Mr. Bliss's reply was that he could not do it, as the company had already made a large contribution.

Scott said he asked Bliss how much the company had contributed and Bliss replied $100,000. On another occasion Scott suggested to Cortelyou that he could probably get money if he would go down to the Standard Oil company, but Cortelyou said he could not go because the president did not wish him to collect money from that company.

ATROCITIES CONTINUE

Special Investigator Finds No Improvement in the Putumayo.

Washington, Oct. 10.—The atrocious labor conditions in the Putumayo rubber district of Peru are but little changed, according to the report of United States Consul and Special Investigator Stuart Fuller, who cabled to the state department upon his arrival at Iquitos, Peru, after a two months' trip into the heart of the rubber district.

Mr. Fuller is sending a detailed report of his investigation by mail to the state department and consequently made but a brief report by cable. He intimated plainly that little real progress has been made by Peru in establishing and enforcing permanent measures of reform.

Don't Want to Serve on Jury.

New York, Oct. 10.—It was impossible yesterday to find the twelfth juror for the trial of Lieutenant Becker. It seemed to Justice Goff that talesmen were deliberately disqualifying themselves. Man after man, doggedly or glibly insisted that he had such set convictions that he did not think he could give Becker a fair trial. The court ordered a new panel of 100 talesmen.

CHARLES P. TAFT

President's Brother Tells of Big Contributions to Campaign Fund.

ON TRACK OF GUILTY PARTIES THEY THINK

Officers Predict Early Arrest in McQuaid Murder.

Vernon, Ind., Oct. 10.—Two clues which may lead to the arrest of the men who shot and killed Charles and John McQuaid, brothers and wealthy farmers, near North Vernon Monday night, have been found by the sheriff. While tracing the telephone wires from the McQuaid home to the place where they were cut the sheriff found a revolver pouch where someone had climbed the telephone pole. It is believed that the owner of the pouch is known.

A cap with bloodstains on it was found on the road near the entrance to the McQuaid farm, which indicates that one of the men was wounded when he attacked Charles McQuaid. It is said this cap may be identified. A white horse and spring wagon is another clue obtained by the sheriff, but he declines to say just how they figure in the mystery. However, he is satisfied he has discovered valuable evidence which may lead to the arrest of the guilty men.

There is much excitement in the neighborhood and some threats have been made. A reward of $1,000 has been offered for the arrest and conviction of the murderers.

There was no longer any doubt that robbery was the motive of the crime when it became generally known that the McQuaids sold some valuable cattle last week, and were supposed to have had this money in the house. The belief is that it was the intention of the murderers to kill the brothers and rob the house, not counting on any interference from the invalid sister. It is the opinion that persons familiar with the habits of the brothers committed the murder and the clues found by the sheriff may lead to arrests.

ANOTHER MIX-UP

A Further Complication in Pennsylvania Politics.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—The leaders of the Republican organization have been outwitted by Senator Flinn. According to the agreement the Roosevelt electors were to have been withdrawn from the ticket in this state before midnight, as that was the last hour for the filing of petitions for new electors and also for candidates for state officers.

It had been agreed that when the Roosevelt electors withdrew the Taft Republicans could substitute new electors. N. D. W. English, one of the electors, left Pittsburgh for Harrisburg yesterday with the withdrawal, but instead of filing it, did not present his papers at the state department before midnight, so that the Taft forces will have to vote for a Republican ticket without any electors on it or else vote the Lincoln party ticket in this state.

The Roosevelt electors' withdrawals were filed one minute past midnight, so that they kept that part of their pledge, but it is too late now to name new Taft electors on the Republican column.

Dead as Result of Fight.

Winchester, Ind., Oct. 10.—Robert N. Croft, aged forty-six, is dead from wounds alleged to have been inflicted by Ruskin Tansel last Saturday. The latter is in jail. Tansel's father and his son are said to have quarreled with Croft. The father gave bond. Croft formerly lived in Greencastle and the Tansels came here from Lebanon.

Women Held on Murder Charge.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 10.—Nellie Mills and Elsie Ligon have been indicted by the grand jury here on a charge of having murdered a woman known as "Jessie" in a local resort. The two women were inmates of the same house. "Jessie" was found dead with a towel stuffed down her throat.

Baby Burned to Death.

Whiting, Ind., Oct. 10.—The two-year-old son of Mike Koubon died of burns received while playing with matches. The mother left the child and a baby in the house alone.

 tines to be a difference of opinion. Most of the farmers contend that rural communities do not need registration. They say that it is practically impossible for a man to "get by" in a country precinct without having his right to vote thoroughly established. They say the county precincts are practically as safe against fraud without registration as with it, but they admit that registration is needed in the cities and towns.

It has been revealed that the registration need not be made burdensome or expensive unless those in charge of it want it made so. Had there not been a determination upon the part of those who were in charge of the Rush county registration to keep the cost down to the lowest possible figure, it could easily have been a great deal more. It would have been possible under the law to make the cost of registration in Rush county more than twice as large as it is.

Members of all parties agree that the big registration means that there is going to be a big vote in the November election. Many predict that it will exceed the vote of four years ago by several hundred, and a few are of the opinion that the increase will not fall much below fifteen hundred.

The tabulated results of the registration indicate that the voters who complied with the law so they can vote are in the majority of the voters who went to the polls two years ago. In but two precincts, it will be seen, was there a falling off as compared with the 1910 vote. The tabulated comparison follows:

ROBBERY ROILS MRS. JOHN GABRIEL

Says Boys Who Were Caught in Glenwood After Theft of Rid Damaged It.

TAKE CHICKENS AND PUMPKINS

Mrs. John Gabriel, whose horse was taken by the two boys who drove it to Glenwood, Monday, objects to the matter being treated lightly, says the Connersville News. She says the horse and rig was stolen by the boys and that furthermore they stole chickens and pumpkins while on their way to Glenwood. Also, the lady says that when the rig was returned there was a lap robe in it which did not belong there and was probably stolen and that the owner can have it by calling her home.

She says the horse was lame and was injured by the long drive; that the rig was damaged and that suit for damage will positively be instituted unless satisfactory settlement is promptly made.

 about which he has no right to be ignored or indifferent. These are the things that concern him most and the most important of them all is the question of his relation of God and the life to come and until you get enough concern about this question as to have an honest desire to know the truth, there can be absolutely no hope for you in the day when you meet Him.

"The second thing is to live up to the truth as far as you can see it. Jesus Christ says, 'If any man will, that is, make up his mind, to do the will of God, he shall know whether the things of Christ are true.'

"Oh, my brother, oh, my sister, believe it tonight, believe it tonight. Yes I challenge you to try it. The trouble with so many of you is that you don't want to. It means too much for you. You know if you're a beer guzzler it would make you sober and decent. If you are a libertine, you will have to quit, and you don't want to quit.

"A desire to know and a willingness to do. God'll save you if you've got that. And why? Just because they'll lead you do the things necessary to your salvation. And what are they? Well the first is, an open confession of Jesus Christ before the world. Jesus Christ demands this. Why shouldn't He. If you're ashamed of Him in this sinful and adulterous generation, He'll be ashamed of you and he ought to be.

"The other essential thing is an honest effort to forsake sin. That a man anxious to know and willing to do the will of God should not come into a deep appreciation of what sin is and what ought to be his attitude toward it, is unthinkable. You say, 'show me they will oh God, and I will do it so far as I can' and just as sure as God is in the universe, there will come to you a deep conviction of sin and a Godly sorrow for it and you will confess your sin and forsake it. Of course if you have made up your mind that you would rather sin at any cost than to do the will of God you will have to go on and sin and get hell for it when you are done. You are a creature of your own will what you will to be, you will be. There are not enough devils in hell to keep you out of heaven if you really want to go there, and there is no power in heaven that can save you if you are determined to go to hell. Oh, man are you willing to do the will of God? You cannot hope for mercy if you do not say good bye to sin. But here is His words: 'Let the wicked forsake his way, and the uprighteous man his thoughts, and let him return unto the Lord, and He will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon.' But some one says, 'What's the use? Why must I make this preparation to meet God? I'll take ten minutes yet to tell you for three reasons.

"First: Every man must stand before the judgment seat of God. Every man, says Paul, shall give an account of himself to God. There is no man of earnest thought today, who teaches that death is the end of man and of the person without a man, the immortal self, is to live beyond the grave, the destiny must belong to the great Intelligence whom we know is God. Listen! 'It is appointed unto man once to die and after death judgment.

"The second reason why a man ought to prepare to meet God is that he would be an awful thing to meet him unprepared.

"The third reason why a man ought to prepare to meet God is because of what it means to meet Him when you are prepared."

REGISTRY WILL COST NEAR $2300Taxpayers Will Have to Pay Approximately That Sum for Three
Meetings of Board.

LAST ONE NOT SETTLED YET

Tabulated Comparison Shows Registration is Smaller than 1910
Vote in Only 2 Precincts.

The registration of voters in Rush county will cost the taxpayers in the neighborhood of twenty-three hundred dollars. It is doubtful if the total will run quite that large. It may be somewhere near twenty-two hundred and eighty dollars.

It is impossible to give the exact cost of the registration at this time, as the commissioners have not yet allowed the claims for the October registry. The claims as allowed by the commissioners reveal that the first registration in May cost $701.05, and the one in September, $759.80. This is a total of $1,520.85.

The claims which have been filed for the expenses of the October registry total $813.55. It will readily be seen that this is larger by more than fifty dollars than either of the others. It is highly probable that the commissioners will not allow the claims as made but will be guided by the same plan they have adopted in allowing claims for the other two. This will reduce the expense of the October one to near the same amount as the other two.

The total may vary a few dollars because of different rents that may be charged. A few registration places were changed this last time, and the rent for them may be less or greater than that paid before. Of course, the board has to allow these claims as demanded, if they are not exorbitant.

But there are some claims they do not have to allow as asked: viz.: those of inspectors. The board has made it a rule to allow the inspectors in the precincts outside the city for three days' work, or a total of twelve dollars. A day and a half is allowed for posting their books and a half day for making the trip to the county seat with their returns. The city inspectors have been allowed in the past only ten dollars for two and half days' work, the half day for making the trip to the court house being taken off. Some of the inspectors always put in a claim for four days' pay.

It is believed that when comparisons are made with the cost of registration in other counties, it will be found that Rush county, the size of its vote considered, has conducted its registration at as small a cost as any county in the state. Indeed, it will not be surprising if it turns out that Rush county has had the most economical registration of all the counties in the state.

Rush county has clearly demonstrated that in counties which have 5,000 voters, or thereabouts, the vote can easily be registered by holding a one-day session in each, May, September and October.

Several counties that have as many voters as Rush county are keeping their registration boards in session for the three days that the law allows, provided that petitions formally asking for it are filed with the registration boards. That this is a needless expense, that it makes the registration an unnecessary burden, is revealed by the fact that Rush county, with approximately 5,000 voters, got them practically all on the records without keeping the registration boards in session more than one day in any one of the three registrations.

As to the need of the registration in the county as a whole, there con-

FIRST DEATH FROM
TYPHOID THIS YEAREllen Dungan, Age 12, Daughter of Thomas Dungan, Expires After
Ten Weeks Illness.

YOUNGER SISTER AFFLICTED

Little Ellen Dungan, age twelve, daughter of Thomas Dungan, 811 North Oliver street, died of typhoid fever last night. This is the first fatality from this dread disease since a year ago last August when John Lewis succumbed from the ailment. The little girl had been sick for ten weeks, and a few weeks back it was thought she would recover. A few days ago, however, the attending physician gave up all hope of her recovery. A younger sister, Elizabeth, is also afflicted with typhoid fever.

There have been several cases of typhoid fever here during the late summer and fall, but all have recovered or are on the road to recovery, with the exceptions in the Dungan family. It will be recalled that several weeks ago Mr. Dungan said he had asked the owner of the property where he lived to clean out the vault, and that when she did not heed him, he notified the city board of health. The property owner denied she had been asked to make the improvement. After some publicity was given to the episode the old vault was filled in and a new one dug. The Dungan girl will be buried in Morristown.

Address at Springfield Today.

James E. Watson delivered a political speech at the Illinois State fair at Springfield today and preparations were made for a monster crowd. Mr. Watson is scheduled to speak in Kansas City tomorrow night. From there he will go to Joplin, Missouri, for a speech Saturday night. This is the first week of the campaign that the local statesman has been outside of Indiana. It is likely that he will devote the remainder of the time until election day in the Hoosier State.

CARL MORRIS IS
LOUDLY PRAISEDRush County Boy Evokes Glowing
Tribute From an Indianapolis Audience.

GIVES RECITAL WEDNESDAY

Although Much Heralded, He More
Than Justified Expectations,
Critic Says.

Carl Morris, the New York barytone, received an ovation from the Matinee Musicale yesterday afternoon at Hollenbeck Hall. Sentiment did not play any part in this applause, for the former Hoosier boy truly won all his laurels, says Paul R. Martin in the Indianapolis Star. Much had been heralded of him, and he more than justified expectations.

This singer can be called a dramatic barytone, both vocally and in interpretation. His voice has great volume, and in its power it is not robbed of its musical quality. He has a fine breath control, and that, combined with perfect enunciation and technique gives only pleasure.

Mr. Morris opened his program with two Handel numbers, a Sarti number and a lovely old English song, "The Pretty Creature." Milton's poem, "Come and Trip It," set to music by Handel, was a splendid opening, for it seemed to give one a delightful invitation to the rest of the program. Handel's "Largo," the second number, so familiar to every one, was beautifully sung. The second group was of German and English songs, "Zueignung," by Strauss; "The Favorite Nook," by Mendelssohn, and "Eros," by Greig, received a round of applause, and Mr. Morris responded by singing a dainty little old Irish song, "The Foggy Dew." The third group was by French composers, and each one seemed to be the best and most artistic.

The climax of the program came with the artist's dramatic singing of the famous prologue from Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci." Most barytones are unable to reach the high notes in this work, but Mr. Morris sang with ease and grace.

An English group closed the program in a most fitting way, "Invectus," by Bruno Huhn, and "Mission," by Franz X. Arens, both Mr. Morris's teachers, were most worthily placed and splendidly sung on this program. The singer again reached high A. A. dialect song, "A Banjo Song," by the American composer, Sidney Homer, delighted the audience. The two Sanderson numbers, which closed the program, are new American compositions, fresh from the publishers, and Mr. Morris's trying them out met with splendid success.

Horse Show Officials Receive Many
Horses For Auction.

Inquiries are being received daily from Ohio, Michigan and other central States for particulars concerning the combination sale which will be held the two days following the horse show, Friday and Saturday of next week. Many catalogues are being sent out. Only yesterday a consignment of a car load of high class horses was received from Ohio. It is estimated that the number of animals in the auction this year will be several times as large as it has ever been and that seventy-five per cent. of the horses will be blooded ones which will bring fancy prices.

The Ninth.New York.— 0 1 0 0 1 0 0 0 0—2

Rube Marquard, the former Indianapolis pitcher, came back today. With him on the mound the New York Giants won the third of the world's championship base ball series from the Red Sox in Boston this afternoon.

The Rube was all but invincible. The Red Sox slipped over the run in their session of the ninth and thus robbed Marquard of the glory of a shut-out game. The game was tight from start to finish, the Giants managing to squeeze one across in the second and one in the fifth. Marquard has been off his feed for some time, after having established a world's record by winning nineteen straight games.

Following a night of rain, which extended into the early morning hours, the Giants and Red Sox were prepared today to play off the second game of the series. Yesterday's tip-and-tuck struggle through eleven innings, which was ended in a tie, at 6 to 6, as darkness fell, brought the contest again to Fenway park. The score of the series today stood: Red Sox, one game won, one tied; Giants, one game lost, one tied.

Prospects for playing today's game were dubious until an hour or two after sunrise. Then the sun shone brightly on the rain-drenched grounds at Fenway park, drying up the moisture of the satisfaction of Jerome Kelly, the ground-keeper, who earlier had begun an attempt to obtain the same result by artificial means. The weather man predicted fair weather after 1 o'clock.

Managers McGraw and Stahl, in common with nearly all their players, were ready to greet the announcement of the postponement yesterday with satisfaction. Darkness ended yesterday an exhausting struggle, and one particularly hard on the pitchers. New York has two pitchers who need to rest. Tesreau, who was knocked out of the box in the opening game of the series in New York last Tuesday, and the one-time redoubtable Mathewson, who finished yesterday's game under a severe physical strain, Matty said today: "It was the hardest game I ever went through. I certainly felt 'all in' when it was over."

Mathewson's failure to win—this manner of phrasing the result most frequently voiced by the Boston players—was a blow to McGraw's plans. "I did expect Matty to win for us," he said. "I haven't used him for nearly a month, and I was sure he could come through. But he did not lose, we did not lose, and the molar victory belongs to us. The boys made a grand fight against a big, early lead. The same spirit will yet carry them through the series to the big title."

Manager Stahl also had a pitching problem to solve. With one game tucked safely away, that won with Joe Wood pitching at New York Tuesday, Boston has used up four pitchers in two days, Collins, Hall and Bedient figuring successively in the Boston box yesterday.

Marquard was regarded as the best available pitcher for New York by baseball sharps, who were of the same opinion regarding Buck O'Brien, of the Red Sox twirlers.

Chief McAllister interfered with the plans of a traveling merchandise peddler yesterday afternoon at the Hall sale in the Davis sale pavilion. After the Hall sale was over the man started to sell merchandise by auction and as the law requires that any temporary business must have a license the chief of police gave him an option of securing a license or quit business. The license is $6 a day for both city and county and the stranger preferred to keep his money.

MORE THAN 100 MEN
FEAST AT BANQUETBrief Talks Are Made on Relation of Men in all Walks to Christianity.

TABERNACLE QUARTET SINGS

Over a hundred men enjoyed the banquet in the basement of the Main Street Christian church, held last evening in connection with the Biederwolf revival to enlist and interest business men in the meeting. The men feasted on the good things to eat set before them by the women of the church, and then a few brief talks were made. They were brief because of the fact that the banquet had to be finished before the meeting began.

John F. Moses talked first, on the subject, "The Influence of the Church on the Community." Link Giffin spoke for a few moments on the merchant as a Christian. Sam Trabue made a short toast on the lawyer as a Christian. Dr. Biederwolf spoke in a happy vein of the kind and courteous treatment he and his party had received in Rushville and urged the business men to enlist in the cause because they can make it a success. E. C. Miller of the Biederwolf party pointed out what an opportunity is afforded Rushville by having such an evangelist as Dr. Biederwolf here. The tabernacle quartet sang several numbers and was heartily applauded.

JOHN KENNEDY ARRESTED

Rushville Man Held in Connersville
For Insulting a Woman.

John Kennedy of Rushville was arrested Wednesday afternoon as he was boarding an I. & C. car on a complaint sworn out by Pete Lutz, says the Connersville Examiner. Lutz complains that Kennedy insulted his wife and daughter. Kennedy was placed in the county jail and will appear before Mayor Hankins Thursday to answer to a charge of disorderly conduct.

The name of John Kennedy does not appear in the Rushville directory.

SHE KNOWS PAPA.

That Mrs. Alice Longworth, daughter of T. But he is the sort of a fellow who, if he goes to a funeral, wants to be the corpse, and if he goes to a wedding, wants to be the bride."

Truths in Regard to Life Here-
after in Tabernacle Sermon.

RESPECTABILITY NO SAVER

Special Sermon For High School
Students Friday Night—Far-
mers Day Saturday.

Dr. Biederwolf made a forceful plea at the tabernacle last night for preparation for a life beyond the grave. He called the crowd's attention to the fact that few of them knew where they would be should they have to face death in the next few hours.

"There are men and women in this city, hundreds of them," he continued, "prominent in public affairs, and people of respectability, who, if they should die tonight, every man and woman in Rushville would know where they went."

The crowd was larger last night than it was the night before and the interest in the meetings seems to be growing nightly. The Modern Woodman and Royal Neighbors were special guests at the tabernacle last night. Tomorrow night will be high school night and Dr. Biederwolf will preach a special sermon in the students' honor. Besides the local high school crowd, a delegation of students from a small town in Rush county will be present.

Special interest is attached to Farmers Day and people who are interested in the revival are looking forward to the event with great anticipation. An all day program of interest to farmers has been prepared with music and sermon in both the morning and afternoon. Many farmers and their families have expressed their intention of attending and bring their baskets filled with good things to eat. Free coffee will be served at the tabernacle.

Dr. Biederwolf's sermon was in part as follows:

Text—"Prepare to meet thy God."—Amos 4:12.

"It's a strange thing that people prepare for everything else and yet live and die without getting ready for eternity."

"An old colored man was one time asked if his master who had just died had gone to heaven. 'No sir,' he said, 'and why don't you think so?' 'Kase I've been living with massa for over thirty years, and he never went any place unless he done told me where he was gwine, and how long he was gwine for to stay, and what he wanted me to get ready, and what he wanted me to take. I've been with Massa now for thirty years, and I never heard him mention the name of heaven; and so I know he ain't dun gone to heaven wherever he's dun gone.'"

"There are men and women in this city, and hundreds of them, prominent in politics and in society, lawyers and doctors, and people of respectability, but if they should die tonight, and the papers announced their death in the morning, every man and woman in the city would know where they had gone."

"God forbid that I should make the cost of being a Christian one iota less than it really is, but I would make the first step as easy as I possibly can and here are two things to which if a man will give himself they will lead him out of the labyrinth of doubt and out of the bondage of sin into the clearest light and fullest freedom."

"First. Let him have an honest desire to know the truth. No man can have an intelligent opinion about everything and God doesn't expect it, but he ought to have just as far as possible. But there are a few things

PLATFORMS OF TWO PARTIES COMPARED

Working and Business Men May Readily Understand the Protective Planks.

The platforms of the Republicans and Democrats are not so complex in phraseology but a working or business man who can read may readily compare them to his own understanding. There is a difference between the two platforms which every voter should know about.

The Republican platform declares for a continuance of the protective tariff; the Democratic platform declares against a protective tariff and in favor of a tariff for revenue only.

Everybody does not understand what this means, but everybody should, because the failure to understand this difference in 1893 closed a great many factories, cut down wages all along the line, put thousands out of employment and opened a good many soup-houses.

The tariff of 1893 was the Wilson tariff, fathered by Professor Wilson, a Virginia college professor. The tariff recommended by the Democratic platform this year is supported by another college professor also named Wilson, coming from New Jersey. There never was a tariff platform prepared by college professors that did not result in injury to the workingmen and business of the country. Put one of these college professors behind the merchant's counter and see how he would run the business. Put him in the shop, or at the bench, and see if he could fill a workman's place.

The difference between a protective tariff and a tariff for revenue is this: A protective tariff is, as its name implies, a tariff high enough to protect the American wage schedule and the American shop from the intrusion of the cheaper foreign labor or the products of the cheaper foreign shop. President McKinley explained this and the workingmen and business men of the country understood him and supported him.

The Democratic platform declares that we have no constitutional right to protect the American wage-earner or the American shop or the American manufacturer by putting a tax on the products of foreign labor and that the only excuse for this tax is because we must levy it to secure the revenues to support our government.

TWO PEAS IN SAME POD.

Democratic Tariff Plank of 1892 a Twin to That of the Party Platform for 1912.

It would require a strong magnifying glass to find the difference between the Democratic tariff plank in 1892, which brought on the disastrous financial results in business to all classes of people during the Cleveland administration, and the plank which the Democrats ask the voters to support in 1912. It is the twin planks, as much alike as two peas in a pod, which cause the voter to look with both fear and suspicion on the proposition to restore the Democrats to power, especially since the Democracy insists that the tariff is the main issue. In 1892 the Democratic tariff plank said:

"We declare it to be a fundamental principle of the Democratic party that the Federal government has no constitutional power to impose and collect tariff duties except for the purposes of revenue only."

The Democratic tariff plank for 1912 reads:

"We declare it to be a fundamental principle of the Democratic party that the Federal government under the constitution has no right or power to impose or collect tariff duties except for the purpose of revenue."

Some Democrats claim the party is progressive, yet by its own declaration it has not advanced an inch in twenty years on an issue which its leaders claim is the most vital of any now before the people. No wonder thinking Democrats are taking alarm and uniting with a party that promises a continuance of the protective system under scientific guidance but with the assurance that the benefits will be equitably distributed.

EGGS HELP TO PASS PROSPERITY AROUND.

Women on Indiana farms are convinced that Republican prosperity is being "passed around" when they compare the "egg money" they are receiving with the market price of this product back in 1896, when Democratic influences were cutting down egg prices and their buying power. Eggs this year have a much longer reach in the market for the farm woman when she goes to town for her home supplies. In 1896 thirty dozen eggs would buy 74 pounds of coffee, and that now she can buy 94 pounds; that in 1896 she could buy 137 pounds of rice and that now she can buy 285 pounds; that in 1896 she could buy 180 pounds of granulated sugar, and that now she can buy 251 pounds; that in 1896 she could buy 114 yards of cotton flannel, and that now she can buy with the same number of eggs 141 yards; that in 1896 she could buy 3 pairs of shoes; that now the same number of eggs will cover the price of five pairs of shoes. In fact, the buying power of eggs has since 1896 increased 90 per cent.

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY

Hoosier Poet Receives Loving Cup From Greenfield Children.

THE HOOSIER POET HONORED AT HOME

Greenfield's Welcome for James Whitcomb Riley.

Greenfield, Ind., Oct. 10.—Greeted by nearly every man, woman and child in town, James Whitcomb Riley came back to Greenfield and the "Old Swamin' Hole." The celebrated Hoosier poet arrived here in his automobile and was escorted down Main street through ranks of school children by a special committee and a band. As Mr. Riley passed down the line each child threw flowers in his automobile and when he reached the courthouse lawn the car was filled with roses, carnations and chrysanthemums. The poet was deeply touched by the demonstration for him in his old home town and at times he gently wiped away tears which he could not keep back. A loving cup was presented to him by the school children. His old friends were glad to see Mr. Riley in apparently much better health than he was some time ago.

Whole County Turned Out.

Greenfield wore the full robes of autumn generously entwined with Old Glory in store windows, in yards and along the streets were shocks of fodder decorated at the base with the richest golden pumpkins that Hancock county has produced. Quotations familiar to Riley were on nearly all of these. The old town band appeared, one member of which, John E. Davis, belonged to it in the years ago, when Jim Riley was the snare drummer and the organization was known as the Adelphean band. Gray-haired John Davis blew his alto horn with new zest when the band struck up old tunes familiar to the poet. Around the public square buggies and automobiles were massed, for all Hancock county was out to welcome and pay honor to Riley.

COURT INSISTS ON EXPEDITION

No Delay Will Be Tolerated in Dynamite Trial.

JUDGE ADMONISHES LAWYERS

In Holding the Attorneys For the Defense Down to a Bare Presentation of Their Case, Judge Anderson Insisted That Defensive Arguments Had No Place at This Stage of the Hearing and Discouraged Delay.

Indianapolis, Oct. 10.—Witnesses for the government are being heard today, the attorneys for the defense in the dynamite case in federal court having completed their statements to the jury.

The first testimony offered by the government showed the finding of letters and other evidence at the offices of the iron workers, following the arrest of John J. McNamara on April 22, 1911, and the progress of this evidence until it came into the possession of the government. This was done to furnish the basis for the introduction of the letters later. Superintendent of Police Martin Hyland and others who figured in the search of the iron workers' headquarters, were among the first witnesses.

The tendency on the part of attorneys for individual clients to remain away from promises to show there was no general conspiracy, as charged, and the tendency to set out that they would introduce evidence to show that if any conspiracy existed, their own clients were not involved in such a conspiracy, were noticeable. Whether this portends a more serious "cutting loose" from the cause of the whole number of defendants remains to be seen as the case progresses. The principal effort was to try to show no entangling alliance with J. J. McNamara.

The statements saw frequent interruptions by United States Attorney Miller, who contended that instead of making a statement of facts the attorneys were trying to argue the case. Judge Anderson at times also interrupted to admonish the attorneys to quit making arguments. At one time he told Attorney Langsdale, whom he had previously warned that he was frequently getting out of bounds, that he must stop it.

The court also directed District Attorney Miller to stop interrupting so frequently.

"This court wants to go ahead with this case," said Judge Anderson.

STOLEN BRIDLE

May Furnish a Clue to Detection of Lena Murder.

Brazil, Ind., Oct. 10.—Detectives working on the Daniel Newton murder case at Lena made the statement that it is their belief that the guilty man will be captured soon.

Bloodhounds traced the murderer to the barn belonging to William Parr, a farmer, living southwest of Lena. Here a bridle was stolen and the course followed by the hounds showed that the murderer had tried to catch a horse. At the Harmony traction station Harry Altman and Earl Bell talked with a stranger, believed to be the guilty man. He was anxious to get out of town and asked the boys what time the next car left. His actions were suspicious and he asked the conductor to be allowed to ride in the front vestibule with the motorman. When refused he rode on the rear seat of the car and pulled his cap down over his face.

The Wheels Suddenly Skidded.

Elkhart, Ind., Oct. 10.—Hurled from an overturned automobile while speeding toward this city to attend a funeral, Thomas Stroupp, aged forty, of Mishawaka, was instantly killed and Fred Abrell, thirty years old, driver of the car, fatally injured a few miles southwest of this city. Stroupp's neck was broken. Abrell's sides were crushed in, every rib broken and his skull fractured. Abrell was driving at a high rate of speed, when the wheels suddenly skidded.

Indicts Crumley For Murder.

Covington, Ind., Oct. 10.—The special grand jury called to investigate the murder of Mrs. Anna Crumley, returned a true bill against Gilbert Crumley, her husband. He is charged with murder in the first degree. He will plead not guilty when arraigned. Crumley is accused of beating his wife to death at Attica.

Suicide of City Marshal.

Decatur, Ind., Oct. 10.—D. M. Atkinson, city marshal, committed suicide by placing the muzzle of a shotgun in his mouth and then pulling the trigger. The top of his head was blown off. No motive is known unless it was because a prisoner escaped from the city jail a few days ago.

Fatal Fall From Ladder.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 10.—George R. Venis, shoe dealer and ex-city councilman, is dead as the result of a broken neck received in a fall from a ladder in his store.

Child Killed Beneath Wagon.

Wabash, Ind., Oct. 10.—The six-year-old daughter of Lincoln Freeman was killed here when she fell beneath the wheels of a wagon.

KANSAS IS REPUBLICAN

Roosevelt Strength Among Voters Is Decreasing Perceptibly Throughout State.

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 23.—Notwithstanding the enthusiasm which has always existed in Kansas for Theodore Roosevelt, it is undeniable that his strength as a presidential candidate is decidedly waning throughout the state.

If he were the candidate of the Republican party, and if there were a chance of his election, he would, of course, sweep the state without any serious opposition. But neither of those conditions exists. The fact that his own leaders have been obliged to yield to the wave of indignant protest which swept against them on account of their effort to have Roosevelt's electors placed in the Republican column has not only proven the strength of the Taft sentiment, but it has eliminated all possibility of Roosevelt carrying the state. The withdrawal of his electors from the Republican columns has emphasized the fact that he is not the Republican candidate; and Kansas is too well satisfied with the conditions which have prevailed during the past sixteen years to follow any man, however popular he may be, out of the Republican party.

The Roosevelt sentiment has been further weakened by the universal conviction that there is no possibility of his election and that the only effect his candidacy can possibly have is to expose the country to the danger of a Democratic victory. Kansas is as far from being a Democratic state as it ever was and with the substantial collapse of the Roosevelt campaign, this state will be found in its accustomed place near the head of the Republican column.

LOSING IN NEBRASKA.

Progressive Party Will Die Before Election Day Comes Around.

Reports from Nebraska show that the Roosevelt sentiment is decreasing. "The Third Term party," says one letter to Director Mulvane of the western bureau of the Taft campaign, "is dwindling down to Pops."

James H. Clark of Hastings, Neb., president of a large company which handles investments, securities and farm mortgages, and who has exceptional opportunity to know the feeling among the farmers, says that in Nebraska the farmers are beginning to realize that if they followed Roosevelt they will land nowhere, and if they allow a Democratic president to be elected, they will be ruined.

In Lincoln, Neb., the Third Term party had difficulty in securing even two hundred and fifty signatures to a petition for their county convention. "The Progressive party will die before election," says one report. "Sentiment is looking better for Taft every day."

CANVASS OF INDIANA

It Shows That the Roosevelt Movement Is Now on the Decline.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 30.—A careful canvass has been made of the Roosevelt sentiment in every county in this state. The inquiry was started by a prominent business man of this city, who was anxious to learn for himself the true condition of affairs. He sent out a large number of letters to men in each of the counties who were not politicians and would have no incentive to falsify the situation. The replies showed that in every county in the state, with one exception, there had been a marked decrease in the Roosevelt sentiment. The opinion was universally expressed that the Third Term candidate had fewer followers now in Indiana than at any time since the campaign opened and this number was steadily decreasing. A few of these reports summarized are as follows:

White county—"Ours is an agricultural community and the farmers all seem satisfied with conditions and are not calling for a change. I see no evidence of Bull Mooseism spreading. On the contrary, it is weaker than at first."

Steuben county—"The Third Termers are on the down grade and will not be as strong a month later as they are now."

Lake county—"Sentiment for the Progressives is weakened, especially among the farmers. Sentiment is growing more and more favorable to the administration."

Montgomery county—"The Bull Moose sentiment here is waning. The Third Term party is losing as the campaign progresses."

De Kalb county—"There will not be many Bull Moose voters here. Taft will get some Democratic votes—quite a number."

Miami county—"The changes are now coming all our way. There are no more desertions from the Republican ranks."

Tipton county—"The Bull Moose sentiment is subsiding." Reports from Allen and La Grange counties are to the same effect.

SLIDING BACK IN NEVADA

Roosevelt Has Reached His Limit and Is Rapidly Receding.

Reno, Nev., Sept. 26.—The decline of the Roosevelt movement, noticeable throughout the country, is very apparent in Nevada.

"The interest in the Bull Moose movement is crystallized in Roosevelt," says the Evening Gazette, "and that interest is waning." The Gazette further states that Roosevelt's disappointing speech in this state, the fact that he is receiving funds from George W. Perkins and is being supported only by cast-off politicians, are drag-stones about his neck. The Gazette sums up the situation in Nevada as follows:

"Roosevelt has reached the limit of his power and is sliding back rapidly."

I Am Willing To Prove I Can Cure You

To That End I Am Giving Away $10,000 Worth of Medicine

In order to show beyond all doubt that I am in possession of a medicine that will cure kidney trouble, bladder trouble or rheumatism, I will this year give away ten thousand dollars' worth of this medicine, and anyone suffering from these diseases can get a box of it absolutely free. All that is necessary is to send me your address.

I don't mean that you are to use a part of it or all of it and pay me if cured. I mean that I will send you a box of this medicine absolutely free of charge, a gift from me to the Urlic Acid sufferers of the world, so I can show them where and how they may be cured. I will not expect payment for this free medicine, nor would I accept it now or later if you sent it. It is free in the real meaning of the word.

For twenty-five years—a quarter of a century—I have been trying to convince the public that I have something genuine, something better than others have for the cure of stubborn, chronic rheumatism, for torturing kidney backache, for annoying cystitis or uric acid. It is hard to convince people—they try a few things unsuccessfully and give up all hope and refuse to listen to anyone thereafter. Happily, I am in a position now to demonstrate to sufferers at my own expense that I have a medicine that cures these diseases. I don't ask them to send any money to find out; I don't ask them to believe me, nor even to take the word of reliable people, but all I ask is that they allow me to send them the medicine at my own cost. That is surely fair.

To this end I have set aside ten thousand dollars which will be used to compound my medicine. Much of it is ready now to be sent out, all of it fresh and standard. There will be enough for all sufferers, though there be thousands of them. And anyone who needs it can get some of it free. But in order that I shall know that you have a disease for which this medicine is intended, I ask you to send me some of your leading symptoms. If you have any of the symptoms in the list printed here you need my medicine and if you will write me I will gladly send you a box of it free with full directions for your use. Look the symptoms over, see which symptoms you have, then write me about as follows: "Dear Dr., I notice symptoms number—here put down the numbers—give your age, full address, and send it to me. My address is Dr. T. Frank Lynott, 5171 Deagan Bldg., Chicago, Ill."

The ten thousand dollars I am spending for the compounding of my medicine is only a part of the money I am devoting to this cause, for the package of medicine I send you will be fully prepaid at my expense. From any standpoint you view it, YOU get the medicine or obligation. Just tell others who you know are suffering who sent you the medicine that cured you.

DR. T. FRANK LYNOTT who is giving away $10,000 worth of medicine.

will do that: I am promising to send any sufferer who writes me a box of this medicine and full directions free of charge, and I will do that. I can say further that this medicine has been vouched for according to law as complying in every detail with all requirements. It will stop rheumatism, it will stop pain and backache, it will stop too frequent desire to urinate; it will heal, soothe and strengthen. You will be better in every way for having taken it. There is not an ingredient that can injure; not one but will benefit. "All that I ask is that you use it yourself so that you may be personally convinced."

Owing to the large number of requests, I have had ten thousand more copies of my medical book printed. This book is new and up to date and contains complete descriptions, symptoms, causes, effects and cures of kidney, bladder and rheumatic diseases. All who write for the free medicine will be sent a copy of this grand illustrated medical book—the largest ever written on these diseases for free and general distribution. If you need medicine such as I have, if you are anxious to be cured and don't want to spend any money LOOKING for cures, write me. Read the symptoms over and let me hear from you today.

These Are the Symptoms:

- 1.—Pain in the back.
- 2.—Too frequent desire to urinate.
- 3.—Burning or obstruction of urine.
- 4.—Pain or soreness in the bladder.
- 5.—Prostatic trouble.
- 6.—Grip or pain in the stomach.

Not to Emulate T. R.

In answer to a letter from Medill McCormick, national vice-chairman, Chauncey Dewey, chairman, and Harold L. Iokes, secretary, of the Illinois Progressive Committee, suggesting a series of five triangular debates for the discussion of the issues of the Republican, Democratic and Progressive parties, but with the condition that "the qualifications, personalities and records of Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Wilson and Mr. Taft are not to be considered or referred to," Director Mulvane, in charge of the Western bureau of the Republican National campaign, today replied as follows:

"I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of September 30th in which you propose a series of five triangular debates upon the issues of the Republican, Democratic and Progressive parties. You make it a condition of acceptance that 'the qualifications, personalities and records of Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Wilson and Mr. Taft are not to be considered or referred to.'

"The campaign which has been in served the proprieties. It has progressed for some weeks has been unfortunately characterized by bitter personalities, although neither President Taft nor Governor Wilson has offended in this respect. President

Sam Sanborn Says:

That the girl with the "plain" face can always draw attention the other way by wearing white shoes and stockings.

And while Mr. Wilson is studying up the high cost of living, which he says is due to the protective tariff, it would be a fine thing for him to examine the report of the London Board of Trade, which, after a minute inquiry into details, discovered and proclaimed the fact that the American workman is not only better paid, but that on the whole he lives as cheaply as the British workers.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

HONOR IN POLITICS.

(Muncie Press.)

A few days ago the Hon Hiram Johnson, governor of California, was in Indiana preaching civic righteousness of the bull moose brand. And now in Johnson's own state, in the area of his own influence, we have an exemplification or just what bull moose righteousness is. Owing to a program of scoundrelism unequalled in the history of American politics Republicans in that state are denied the right to vote the Republican ticket. The members of the new party in that state, in violation of the ordinary dictates of decency and honesty, insisted on participating in the election of delegates to the state convention of the Republican party, which they claim to have abandoned. In states having effective primary laws, the intrusion of men into the caucuses and primaries of parties to which they do not belong is a crime, —and morally it is a crime in California. By participating as bull moosers in Republican primaries the progressive bosses in California managed with the aid of the state political machine to control the state convention of a party they have abandoned. To make possible the success of their crooked scheme to disfranchise the republicans of the state, the California bosses caused the enactment of a primary law which makes it impossible for the Republicans to have any sort of representation on the ballot. This disfranchisement of the Republicans of California is an exhibition of dishonor on the part of the bull moose machine in California that is without parallel in all of the long record of political crookedness in this country.

However, this same dishonesty permeates the methods of the bull moose bosses in Indiana, and in Delaware county. Here these bosses and their local organs have insisted on men disloyal to the Republican party remaining on the Republican county committee in order that they may spy upon and betray the Republican cause. They have maliciously lied about an organization of real Republicans engaged in the support of the whole Republican ticket. The Eighth district in its day has seen some pretty crooked politics, but never before anything so disreputable as the dirty work that has been attempted by the gang of soreheads and castoff politicians who are directing the affairs of the "Uplift" movement in Delaware county, and the newspaper which in its puerile way has sought to defend them. There crooked methods have opened the eyes of hundreds of honest and sincere men who under other circumstances would have then inclined to follow them. The election results in Delaware county will demonstrate that perfidy and dishonor do not pay in politics.

Final Game of Season on Local Lot
With Indianapolis Merits as Attraction.

AVERY IN BOX FOR VISITORS

The final ball game of the season on the local lot will be played Sunday when the Indianapolis Merits will meet the locals. It will positively be the last game here this year. Considerable interest is being shown in the game because "Chick" Avery, who pitched a majority of the Rushville games this year will be in the box for the Merits. Local fans need no introduction to "Chick" as his work is too well known. Avery has high hopes of beating his former teammates and with Halterman pitching for Rushville, it should prove one of the best games of the season.

The Merits have a great record this year having defeated such teams as Alexandria, Delphi, the Reserves and lost to Bedford 1 to 0 with Avery in the box. In this game Chick allowed only three hits. A week from Sunday the locals will journey to Richmond for a game with the K. I. O. league team of that city.

CORN HUSK LIGHT, MILD WINTER DUE

Old Sign That Forecasts Season of Medium Temperature is Apparent This Fall.

IT IS TO BE HOPED ANYWAY

In view of the high price of fuel it is encouraging to learn that at least some of the signs that are held to indicate mild winters are in evidence. In fact many people who make more or less of a study of this question are insisting that the coming winter will be a mild one. They say that the husk on the corn is exceptionally scant this year and that other signs indicate that the winter will be a mild one.

Some there are who settle this question, in their own minds at least, by the amount of fur on fur bearing animals. It is said that it is yet too early to determine anything definite from this source. Anyway, every body is hoping that the coming winter will be a mild one and therefore are, perhaps, more ready to believe in the reputed signs than at times when the severity of mildness of the winters is not of such vital concern to them as now.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Detective's Conscience" the first picture at the Princess tonight is a powerful Lubin drama. The other is an Essanay comedy entitled "The Brown's Have Visitors."

Warren Kerrigan in the American drama "The Girl Back Home" a story of an untold love and a woman's envy. The other is a Solax featuring Billy Quirk and his trick dog, are the pictures at the Palace tonight. Monday night this theater will show the famous "Blackhand Picture."

Madame Nazimova, now under Charles Frohman's management, will be seen at English's Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday matinee in "The Marionettes," a comedy adapted from the French. The original play is from the pen of Pierre Wolff and concerns itself with the affairs of a young country girl, fresh from a convent, who marries a gay Parisian. To the husband, the marriage is one only of convenience, and he makes no pretense of loving his wife, whom he finds to be very quiet, very awkward and not at all fitted for the Parisian life. The girl, however, really falls in love with her husband, and, in order to induce a similar feeling on his part, she undertakes the task of becoming the sort of woman, outwardly at least, that seems to attract him. To this end dressmakers transform her and her own ingenuity does the rest. Paris begins to take notice of her—and subsequently, her husband follows suit. The end comes when he is on his knees before her. Supporting Madame Nazimova will be seen Frank Gilmore, Arthur Lewis, Edward Fielding, Kate Meek and others.

Among the most important engagements of the season at English's will be that of Fritz Scheff, who appears at this playhouse October 14, 15 and 16 in a new light opera, "The Love Wager." She will be followed by Thomas W. Ross in "The Only Son."

LOST—Either on the down town street or at tabernacle a gold dollar tie pin. Return to Earl Conaway and receive reward. 181t4.

The Sable Lorcha

BY
Horace Hazeltine

(Copyright, 1912, A. C. McClure & Co.)
Had I not played tennis and golf with Cameron scores of times on hot summer days when, with shirt sleeves rolled above his elbows, his forearms were bared to view? Could there by any possibility have been a tattoo mark there, and I not have seen it? Mr. Bryan came quickly, a little puzzled, seemingly, at being called to such an audience. Purposely I kept silence, merely waving an introductory hand toward the two Chinamen. Yup Sing tactfully explained the situation. "A question has arisen, Mr. Bryan," he said, with more of suavity in his tone than I had hitherto observed, "whether by any chance your patient has a mark of any character whatever tattooed upon his left forearm. If you have observed such, we shall be glad if you will kindly describe it." The nurse flung a questioning glance at me, and I nodded reassuringly. I did not wonder that he was surprised at the question. "Is there, or is there not, such a mark?" the Oriental urged. "There is; yes, sir." I think, involuntarily, I started forward. I know that for just a breath I thought my ears had played me a trick. Then, suddenly, there swept back across my memory that expression of Checkabeedy's: "Who between you and me, sir, I don't trust, nohow." Could it be possible that Bryan was in the conspiracy? But only for the briefest moment did this doubt sway amid the welter of my thoughts. Into its place rolled an amazement that shocked and stunned; that checked me all standing, as it were; for Bryan was amplifying, was telling about the mark, which he had first noticed he said, on the night of his arrival, and which he had examined more closely on several occasions since. "It's evidently a representation of some sort of sailing vessel," he explained, "with a curved hull and a single broad sail. And below it are three letters: D. M. N."

Blindly I clutched the back of a chair with both hands, for a sense of unreality oppressed me, and the room itself became waveringly unsubstantial. "It was not true, of course, this that Bryan was saying. Nothing was true. Nothing was real. It was all a nightmare; and the two gloating yellow masks were horrible dream faces." "And you have probably noticed a scar—a long livid scar?" It was Yup Sing's voice I heard. He was still questioning the nurse. And now Bryan would make another preposterous answer, just as persons always do in dreams. I knew he would. So when he said: "Yes, sir, just between the left shoulder blade and the spinal column. It looks as though it were the mark of a deep and vicious knife slash," I was not in the least surprised. Checkabeedy brought me back to a realization of time and place. He spoke my name in a half-whisper and I awoke again to realities with a start. "The officers are here, sir," he informed me, matter-of-factly. "The officers?" I repeated, and then, memory reasserting itself, I added: "Oh, yes, of course. Ask them to wait just a moment, Checkabeedy." Into the mental marshalling of facts which ensued there came a vivid memory of that weird scene in the sick-chamber when Cameron had raved in a strange tongue, mingled with words of pidgin-English and a few phrases—

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL

Health is Worth Saving, and Some
Rushville People Know How to
Save it.

Many Rushville people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Weak kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health—the slightest delay is dangerous. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—a remedy that has helped thousands of kidney sufferers. Here is a Rushville citizen's recommendation.
Mrs. Ella Endicott, 125 South Harrison street, Rushville, Ind., says: "We have used Doan's Kidney Pills in our family with good results. A member of the family suffered from severe pains through his back and had difficulty in straightening after stooping. His kidneys were also irregular in action. Finally he used Doan's Kidney Pills and they corrected the troubles."

fiercinating phrases, in the light of tonight's revelation—of vigorous vernacular. If what Bryan had said was true—and for him to lie about a matter as readily demonstrable was hardly to be considered—I must conclude myself beaten at all points. From first to last, then, I had been defending a creature unworthy of defense.
It was difficult to accept this conclusion. Mind and heart alike were arrayed against it. Yet, thinking clearly now, I recognized fully the position in which I had placed myself. I had been willing to swear, to wager, there was no tattoo mark, and the best evidence—my own witness—had proved me wrong. Certainly I could expect no mild judgment from these Asiatics. Honest as I had been, they must believe that I had known, and had meant to deceive them. They probably thought that I had signalled to Bryan to endorse me in my lies, and that the nurse had either misunderstood or openly rebelled.
Before Checkabeedy had reached the door, I recalled him.

"On second thought," I said, "the officers need not wait. Tell them that it was a mistake. I shall not require them."
Turning to Yup Sing and his companion, I added:
"What Mr. Bryan has told you is the greatest surprise to me. Even yet I can scarcely believe it, unless the mark and the scar were obtained while my friend was a prisoner in the hands of your countrymen."
"Tattoo marks and scars show age no less than faces," the merchant replied. "Both of these are years old. Any capable judge of such things will tell you that. Possibly Mr. Bryan can tell."
"The scar is not a fresh one," said the nurse. "As to tattoo marks, I am not experienced; but I shouldn't think the mark on Mr. Cameron's arm was put there recently."
"Gentlemen," I said, making a final stand, "while I do not question Mr. Bryan's entire honesty in this matter, nevertheless I prefer to see these marks of identification, myself. If you will excuse us for five minutes, I shall not be longer."

At the foot of the grand staircase, Evelyn joined me. Bryan, at my suggestion, went to the elevator and ascended that way, while she and I slowly climbed the broad, velvet-carpeted marble steps to the floor above.
"I thought you were never coming out of that room," she declared, nervously. "Once, I was on the verge of going after you. The first time you rang for Checkabeedy, I mean."
What did you have him telephone for? He absolutely refused to tell me. Was it the two policemen? . . . What did you want them for? . . . Why did you let them go away again? . . . Aren't those Chinamen ever going? . . . What on earth did you want with Mr. Bryan? . . . What are you going upstairs for, now?"

How tactfully I answered these questions and others I shall not attempt to decide. I know only that I set my teeth to guard the one problem which absorbed me, and which for worlds I would not have her know.
"It is all right, Evelyn," I assured her, over and over again. "There is not the smallest danger. . . . They came to give me information. . . . You must be very tired, little girl. . . . Go to bed, now, and forget it all until morning. . . . Yes, I'll tell you everything, then."
I wonder how many women there are who, burning with curiosity as she was, would have obliged me as she did! Is it pardonable, then, if again I say that throughout all this trying experience she proved herself a girl of a thousand?

Bryan was waiting for me in the passage outside Cameron's door.
"I left him sleeping," he explained, "and, if possible, I don't wish to disturb him; so we'll go in quietly together."
Slowly and with infinite care lest he make the least noise he turned the knob. Quite as cautiously he opened the door, and tiptoeing softly, we entered.
It was the first time I had been in the room since the day of that terrible outburst, and it still held for me an atmosphere as ghoulishly forbidding as that of a tomb.
Only one lowered light burned, over a tall, antique bureau between the darkly curtained windows; the chamber was in semi-gloom. But scarcely had I passed Bryan, who stopped to close the door with the same adroit silence with which he had accomplished its opening, than a stealthily moving white figure defined itself, issuing, apparently from a massive carved wardrobe, which stood against the wall opposite the huge, tattered bed.

The spectacle was at least arresting. I know I halted abruptly as if stricken all at once with total paralysis. For a heart-beat or two I think I stopped breathing. But my eyes meanwhile were strained fixedly upon the apparition, and seeing it pass with almost incredible swiftness beneath the one dim light above the bureau, I recognized Cameron.

At the same moment the room was flooded with a sudden glare. Bryan too, had seen, and had switched on the electric. Simultaneously he flashed past me and was at his patient's side.
"What does this mean?" I heard him say. "What did you want? Can't I trust you alone for ten minutes? I told you, Cameron, that you must not leave your bed unless I am with you." I saw Cameron cover under the upbraiding. In his eyes I read terror, and all my sympathy was aroused on this instant. Bryan might be carrying out Dr. Massey's orders, but he appeared to me unnecessarily harsh.

"What were you doing?" he insisted; and then I saw him roughly grasp his patient's arm, and hold it up, revealing a tightly clenched hand.
"Mr. Bryan!" I cried in remonstrance. "Gently, gently. Remember—" But the nurse paid small heed to me. He was busy opening the doubled fist.
I stood now where I could look Cameron squarely in the face, but my gaze was elsewhere. It was his left hand over which Bryan was engaged, and from his wrist to his elbow the sleeve of his white night robe had been pushed back, exposing a sinewy forearm, marked precisely as Bryan had described it.

Scrutinizingly I bent forward. The tattooing was indisputable, and, as the nurse had said, it bore no evidence of being recent work.
Up to that moment I had hoped against hope that in some way or other a misconception had occurred. I had hoped, I suppose, for the performance of some miracle which would exonerate this man. And now that hope was obliterated by those blue-pricked letters D. M. N. beneath an almost exact facsimile of the black smudge which had taken the place of signature on each of the three threatening letters—the black smudge, of which Cameron, wearing it then indelibly upon the cuticle, had dared to feign utter ignorance.

And yet, I asked myself once more, how was it that I had never noticed it before? Again and again I had seen that forearm bared. Surely I would have observed so odd a mark; certainly I would have been perplexed by those three unflitting initials.
"There, now," Bryan was saying. "Back to bed with you, Cameron. What did you want this letter for, anyway? If it was necessary for you to have it, couldn't I have got it for you?"
"Give it back to me!" Cameron was pleading, piteously. "Give it back to me! It is a private matter. Give it back to me, or destroy it before my eyes. Burn it, here, before me."
"Let me have it, Mr. Bryan," I asked, and turning to the unhappy gentleman I said: "You'll trust me, won't you, Cameron? I'll destroy it, unread, if you wish it."
"No, no, no," he objected, earnestly. "Give it back to me."
But even as he demanded it, Bryan put it in my hands; and spreading it out—for it had been crumpled to a pellet in the invalid's clutch—I was about to humor him, when the superscription caught my eye and held it.
The envelope bore the name and address: "Donald McNish, Taylor's Hotel, New York City, U. S. A."

CHAPTER XXIV.

Another Problem Crops Up.
There are, I dare say, those who will not hesitate to charge me with an unpardonable lack of perception. "Even from your own telling," they will probably declare, "we realized from the first that the creature you discovered at two in the morning, supporting himself by means of a Fifth Avenue area railing, was not Robert Cameron, but his physical counterpart, and a not very deceptive counterpart at that."
I shall not dispute the justice of the criticism. As I look back at it all now, I sometimes wonder, myself, how I could have been so blind, so credulous. And yet there is something to be said on the other side, too. An able advocate, I believe, might make out a fairly strong case for me if I were disposed to defend myself; which, as it happens, I am not, since the verdict can make no possible difference either to you or to me, and would only delay the culmination of our narrative.

Nevertheless I must tell that for some minutes after reading the letter which had so opportunely fallen into my hands I stood at the foot of the bed, and in the glare of the blazing electric, studied with keenest scrutiny the face which had so deceived me.
In general contour and individual feature the likeness to Cameron was monstrous in its fidelity. The same rugged power, inherited from Scottish forbears, was traceable in every lineament. But there the similarity ended. The face I gazed upon lacked illumination. Character, so strongly indicated in the other, was from this totally absent. In its place was an admixture of craft and brutality, so palpable, now—so clearly, unmistakably evident—that I marvelled at my former delusion.
It was the newspaper puzzle picture

over again. Having at length discovered the hidden rabbit I could see nothing else whatever. It dominated the drawing. It fairly sprang at me from out the printed page.
There was still another feature of the revelation, however, which held a contrasting pathos. The letter which carried conviction beyond all possible dispute was from Donald McNish's aged mother. And while it tempered in a measure the harshness of my judgment against the son, it was of tragic import, in that it was one potent piece of evidence in his undoing, severing the last link in the chain which connected his identity with that of the shamefully maligned Cameron. Evelyn wept over this letter, and I am not sure but that my own sight grew bazy, too, as I read the fond, quaintly couched phrases of endearment, penned half a year back in Dundee, by this God-fearing old Scotchwoman, to that infamous, blood-stained reprobate, who, to her, was still her "ain bonnie bairn."

It all came out, eventually, that McNish had traveled the world over in the sixteen years intervening since the cold massacre, employing a score or more of aliases and so studiously avoiding the name by which he had then been known, as to have almost forgotten it, probably, himself, until, yielding to the call of home, he had at some early period of the last twelve-month returned for a brief visit to his native town and his septuagenarian mother.
It was then, most likely, that he gave to her the address of the New York hotel. Fate influenced the mother to write, and Fate sent the son there six months later to get the letter, and so carry upon his person the confirmatory evidence of his identity, just at the time when it would prove fatal.

"How did it happen," I have been asked, "that you didn't examine immediately the clothes that the supposed Cameron wore, when you found him?"
In view of subsequent events it is very easy to see what an important bearing such an examination would have had. But at the time, there was no one who thought of it. Our chief purpose then was to get the injured man to bed, and to secure a physician and nurse to minister to his recovery. If he had been found dead, then, of course, we should have gleaned what information we could from his pockets. But we daily expected him to be able to tell his own story, and in the anxiety and confusion of the moment the possible pregnancy of the disclosures that lurked in his apparel was entirely lost sight of.

When we did make the examination, on the morning following the episode of the letter, it was to discover that the suit and overcoat worn by McNish were of Scotch manufacture, having been made in Dundee, according to sewn-in labels, early in the current year.
To be continued.

Mrs. Paul Wehling, 316 Smith St., Peoria, Ill., had kidney and bladder trouble, with terrible backache and pain across the hips. Just imagine her condition. She further says: "I was also very nervous, had headache and dizzy spells, and was fast getting worse when I took Foley Kidney Pills, and now all my troubles are cured. Foley Kidney Pills have done so much for me I shall always recommend them." F. B. Johnson & Co.

BUTTER'S BUYING POWER FOR THE FARM WOMEN
Every farm woman who trades her butter for groceries, for clothing, for home furnishings, would not willingly go back to the discouraging market conditions of 1896, when twenty pounds of butter had far less purchasing power, or exchange value, than in the prosperous Republican year of 1912. Figures based on Government reports show that in 1896 twenty pounds of butter would purchase 37 pounds of coffee, and that now it will purchase 46 pounds; that in 1896 it would purchase 69 pounds of rice, and that now it will purchase 140 pounds; that in 1896 it would purchase 6 barrels of salt, and that now it will purchase 7 barrels; that in 1896 it would purchase 90 pounds of granulated sugar, and that now it will purchase 123 pounds; that in 1896 it would purchase 13 pounds of tea, and that now it will purchase 28 pounds; that in 1896 it would purchase 4 yards of Brussels carpet, and that now it will purchase 5 yards, and so on down through the list of everything the farm woman has to buy. In other words, the buying power of twenty pounds of butter has increased 86 per cent.

PROCTOR LIQUOR LAW A SERPENT

Democratic Legislature Gave the People Measure Framed By Brewery Interests.

Governor Marshall, Democratic candidate for Vice-President, in his speeches in Indiana, has been "pointing with pride" to the last Legislature to prove that it had been a very efficient body. The Fort Wayne News says that when Marshall was calling off this list of presumably beneficent laws, he failed utterly to even so much as suggest that law which this glorious Legislature devoted the major portion of its time. The News says:
"He made no reference whatsoever to the Proctor liquor law, and he thereby gave to the public for the first time his real and honest opinion of that law which was made in Fort Wayne under the personal supervision of Steve Fleming and rammed through a brewery-owned Legislature by the representatives of the brewery trust. In his enumeration of the statutes he considered praiseworthy Governor Marshall did not damn the Proctor law with faint praise but he double damned it by mentioning it not at all."
Governor Marshall knows that law for what it really is—a fraud, a farce, and a cheap pretense. He knows that it is the serpent the people were given when they asked for fish and the stone they received when they begged for bread. He knows that it is a law adroitly framed to say apparently one thing; yet to mean something altogether different; a law designed and calculated to continue and entrench those ancient abuses of the liquor traffic that have made it an offense in the eyes of the people of this State.
Governor Marshall knows all this and knowing it he does not stoop to the stultification that would fall upon him by a public endorsement of that which he knows is a fraud and a sham.

"I DON'T LIKE TAFT."

(South Bend Tribune.)
"I don't like Taft and I shall not vote for him."
This is the thoughtless utterance of scores of men who would be insulted were their adherence to the Republican party questioned or doubt cast upon the sincerity of their allegiance to that party; and yet it is not a fact that that very utterance proves their disloyalty, unintentional though it be, and has its influence in inviting policies which it is known will result most disastrously for their country. The men who insist they are Republicans but will not vote for Taft simply because they do not like him are assuming an attitude most of them would not take if they would but weigh the situation carefully. Let them ask themselves these questions and see if they would not answer themselves with these replies:
"Am I really a Republican?"
"Well, I should say I am. Why, my father and my grandfather were Republicans and I couldn't be anything else and be true to my conscience and my beliefs of how our great American government should be run."
"By the way, what are my beliefs?"
"Well, first of all, I believe in a tariff. By that I mean a tariff that will produce a revenue and besides that protect every industry that needs protection because that means the protection of the man who works in that industry against the competition of lower wages of the foreign countries. Then I believe in the constitution. I believe, too, that my party represents all that is highest and best for us as a nation because I know that under my party's policies my country has prospered exceptionally."
"Well, but I don't like Taft and I don't want to vote for him."
"That may be true, but don't I read our newspaper although I don't like its editor, but do like the paper's policy? Don't I pay my grocery house a good sum every month although I fairly hate the owner, but he sells good goods and gives honest weight? Don't I patronize Dr. Jones although I don't like him, but I have confidence in his skill?"

TIE GAME ENDED IN THE TWILIGHT

Giants and Red Sox Go 11 Innings to a Tie.

A FIERCELY FOUGHT CONTEST

Few Games in the History of the Sport Ever Have Hummed With More Aggressive Action Than Did This Drawn Battle Between the Giants and the Red Sox, Respective Champions of the Two Big Leagues.

Boston, Oct. 10.—The second game of the world's series between the Giants and Red Sox was a fiercely fought contest, and it ended in the twilight, eleventh inning, a tie with a score of 6 to 6. It hummed with aggressive action, no "world's series," and few of any other kind equalling it in that regard.

The national commission's figures for attendance and receipts are as follows: Total paid attendance, 30,148; total receipts, $58,369; players' share, $31,519.26; each club's share, $10,506.42; national commission's share, $5,836.90.

The two teams went at it hammer and tongs from the start. The lead swung back and forth, which added to the excitement already feverish because of the hard hitting with which the game abounded and the brilliant fielding and ragged fieldings. The Giants battled their way from behind and with the utmost tenacity hung on to the Red Sox until they had snatched the lead away from them in the eighth inning. Fully as tenacious, the Red Sox replied with heavy fire and tied the Giants in the eighth inning and again in the tenth. The scoring ceased with the tenth inning.

It was the battle-scarred veteran Mathewson whom McGraw chose to face the heavy hitting Red Sox and stop in their determination to go straight down the line, winning victories. At recurrent periods Matty was bumped savagely by the Red Sox, but he stood up to the punishment like a major and with stout heart came back with the best he had and survived more than one dangerous situation. He had his usual good control and that helped him, and he also used his fade-away advantageously several times, but when the Red Sox did hit him they everlastingly made the sphere sing and shriek as it clove a line to distant points.

Boston Pitcher Knocked Out.

Not an iota less ruthless was the batting of the Giants. The Giants had the satisfaction of knocking one Boston pitcher out of the box. Ray Collins, the southpaw pride of the Hub, was forced to vacate the eminence in the eighth inning, so vehement was New York's onslaught in that period.

An error by Lewis, however, a muffed fly, opened the way to the slugging soiree which rocked Collins from his throne, and it was a costly error. Yet it was Boston's only error. The Red Sox outfielded the Giants. They were steadier, but showed no more fire in the brilliant fielding plays, which came often. The only inexpensive New York misplay was a muffed foul by Merkle. Fletcher was the weak spot in the New York fortress. His errors were extremely costly. In truth, five Boston runs can be traced directly to the transgressions of the shortstop. He muffed a liner and lost a chance for a double play; he muffed a throw to stop a steal, and he let a grounder go through him. There were men on bases every time he did these things, and the men on base scored.

As the battle tightened in the latter innings there was much manipulation of forces and deploying of the reserves by the rival managers. McGraw's moves in the transfer line served well, even if they did not enable him to win. Stahl displayed nice judgment at knowing just the right moment to take a pitcher out and his dismissal of Collins in the eighth was summary.

Larry Gardner was slammed full in the face by a hot grounder of Meyer's propulsion, but he stuck to his post. In the tenth inning Speaker hit a hot one to the center field boundary. It flew back to Becker, who relayed it to Shafer. Speaker tried for a home run and reached the goal only because Wilson muffed the throw-in on the bound. Speaker was angry all over when he got up, declaring that Herzog had tried to block him at third base, and when the inning was over started out toward Herzog. Larry Doyle met him half way and acted as peacemaker. The incident caused no little commotion, but it was the only sign of ill feeling.

LITTLE HOPE FOR PEACE IN BALKANS

Note of the Powers Not Well Received.

London, Oct. 10.—From the latest dispatches received from the near east, it seems certain that the note of the European powers was not well received by the Balkan allies to whom it was addressed and that its terms with regard to reforms in Macedonia and the guarantees for the carrying out of the reforms are not satisfactory to the governments of the Balkan states.

A dispatch from Sofia says it is probable that Bulgaria will not reply to the note on the ground that she does not consider that the tenor of the note is such as to demand an answer. The premier still professes to be for peace, but has not slackened in his preparations for war.

King Nicholas of Montenegro issued a proclamation to his people and to his army in which he characterizes the war on which Montenegro has embarked as a "holy undertaking." That the Montenegrins have begun an invasion of Turkey, following their declaration of war, appears to be confirmed, and with this news the hope for peace which has been kept up among the powers was almost if not quite abandoned. The Montenegrins attacked a Turkish position opposite Podgorizza and after four hours of artillery firing the Turks abandoned the heights of Planinitza. After winning this victory the Montenegrins advanced to assault a fortified position at Detchitch. The Turks received reinforcements and the battle was still continuing at the time of the last advice received.

A NEW LIGHT ON CAMPAIGN FUNDS

Additional Testimony Concerning 1904 Contributions.

Taft's Brother Testifies

Among Those Called Before the Clapp Committee Was Charles P. Taft, Who Told of His Contributions to the Campaign of 1908 and This Year—Further Details of the Big Fund Raised by E. H. Harriman.

Washington, Oct. 10.—To the Clapp committee Dan R. Hanna of Cleveland testified that he gave $177,000 to Theodore Roosevelt's pre-convention campaign this year. To the Roosevelt national committee he gave $50,000; to Walter F. Brown, for the Ohio campaign, $50,000, and for state organization in Ohio, $77,000.

Charles P. Taft, the president's brother, told the committee he contributed $250,000 to the national campaign in 1908 and that $150,000 was returned. He also contributed $40,000 to the Ohio campaign.

"I thought my brother was fitted for the presidency," said Mr. Taft, "and if elected I wanted him to walk into the White House without obligation to any great interests or corporations. On that basis, I was prepared to go the limit."

Mr. Taft testified that his contributions to the president's campaign for renomination totaled $213,592.

Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the executive committee of the United Pacific railroad, in his testimony before the committee, definitely fixed the amount of the Harriman fund in 1904 at $250,000. Lovett was able to state the amount with definiteness because he turned the contribution over to Cornelius N. Bliss, treasurer of the Republican national committee. After the money had come into the hands of Harriman in the form of individual checks and cash, he turned the contributions over to Lovett, as he (Harriman) was going to his country place that afternoon, with instructions that when Bliss called Lovett should turn over the money, which he did.

According to the testimony of Lovett, a large part of the amount raised by Mr. Harriman was represented by brokers' checks. This plan was used to conceal the name of the contributors. As a man who was the intimate business associate of Harriman for many years, Lovett testified that there could be no doubt that Roosevelt sent for Harriman and urged him to raise this money. He related that he had had many conversations with Harriman on this point, and that the railroad magnate was always emphatic in stating that he was asked by the president to undertake to raise this enormous campaign fund on the eve of the election. Lovett testified that he was acquainted with all of the movements of Harriman at the time this money was raised; he knew of his invitation to the White House; he knew of his going, and he knew of his raising the money after he returned from his visit to President Roosevelt.

Former United States Senator Nathan B. Scott of West Virginia, who was a member of the executive committee of the Republican national committee in 1904, and who was at headquarters in New York regularly until within about three weeks before the election, testified that some time in October he suggested to Bliss that if he would go down to No. 26 Broadway (the office of the Standard Oil company), he could doubtless get a contribution. Mr. Bliss's reply was that he could not do it, as the company had already made a large contribution.

Scott said he asked Bliss how much the company had contributed and Bliss replied $100,000. On another occasion Scott suggested to Cortelyou that he could probably get money if he would go down to the Standard Oil company, but Cortelyou said he could not go because the president did not wish him to collect money from that company.

ATROCITIES CONTINUE

Special Investigator Finds No Improvement in the Putumayo.

Washington, Oct. 10.—The atrocious labor conditions in the Putumayo rubber district of Peru are but little changed, according to the report of United States Consul and Special Investigator Stuart Fuller, who cabled to the state department upon his arrival at Iquitos, Peru, after a two months' trip into the heart of the rubber district.

Mr. Fuller is sending a detailed report of his investigation by mail to the state department and consequently made but a brief report by cable. He intimated plainly that little real progress has been made by Peru in establishing and enforcing permanent measures of reform.

Don't Want to Serve on Jury.

New York, Oct. 10.—It was impossible yesterday to find the twelfth juror for the trial of Lieutenant Becker. It seemed to Justice Goff that talesmen were deliberately disqualifying themselves. Man after man, doggedly or glibly insisted that he had such set convictions that he did not think he could give Becker a fair trial. The court ordered a new panel of 100 talesmen.

President's Brother Tells of Big Contributions to Campaign Fund.

ON TRACK OF GUILTY PARTIES THEY THINK

Officers Predict Early Arrest in McQuaid Murder.

Vernon, Ind., Oct. 10.—Two clues which may lead to the arrest of the men who shot and killed Charles and John McQuaid, brothers and wealthy farmers, near North Vernon Monday night, have been found by the sheriff. While tracing the telephone wires from the McQuaid home to the place where they were cut the sheriff found a revolver pouch where someone had climbed the telephone pole. It is believed that the owner of the pouch is known.

A cap with bloodstains on it was found on the road near the entrance to the McQuaid farm, which indicates that one of the men was wounded when he attacked Charles McQuaid. It is said this cap may be identified. A white horse and spring wagon is another clue obtained by the sheriff, but he declines to say just how they figure in the mystery. However, he is satisfied he has discovered valuable evidence which may lead to the arrest of the guilty men.

There is much excitement in the neighborhood and some threats have been made. A reward of $1,000 has been offered for the arrest and conviction of the murderers.

There was no longer any doubt that robbery was the motive of the crime when it became generally known that the McQuaids sold some valuable cattle last week, and were supposed to have had this money in the house. The belief is that it was the intention of the murderers to kill the brothers and rob the house, not counting on any interference from the invalid sister. It is the opinion that persons familiar with the habits of the brothers committed the murder and the clues found by the sheriff may lead to arrests.

ANOTHER MIX-UP

A Further Complication in Pennsylvania Politics.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—The leaders of the Republican organization have been outwitted by Senator Flinn. According to the agreement the Roosevelt electors were to have been withdrawn from the ticket in this state before midnight, as that was the last hour for the filing of petitions for new electors and also for candidates for state officers.

It had been agreed that when the Roosevelt electors withdrew the Taft Republicans could substitute new electors. N. D. W. English, one of the electors, left Pittsburgh for Harrisburg yesterday with the withdrawal, but instead of filing it, did not present his papers at the state department before midnight, so that the Taft forces will have to vote for a Republican ticket without any electors on it or else vote the Lincoln party ticket in this state.

The Roosevelt electors' withdrawals were filed one minute past midnight, so that they kept that part of their pledge, but it is too late now to name new Taft electors on the Republican column.

Dead as Result of Fight.

Winchester, Ind., Oct. 10.—Robert N. Crooft, aged forty-six, is dead from wounds alleged to have been inflicted by Ruskin Tansel last Saturday. The latter is in jail. Tansel's father and his son are said to have quarreled with Crooft. The father gave bond. Crooft formerly lived in Greencastle and the Tansels came here from Lebanon.

Women Held on Murder Charge.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 10.—Nellie Mills and Elsie Ligon have been indicted by the grand jury here on a charge of having murdered a woman known as "Jessie" in a local resort. The two women were inmates of the same house. "Jessie" was found dead with a towel stuffed down her throat.

Baby Burned to Death.

Whiting, Ind., Oct. 10.—The two-year-old son of Mike Konbon died of burns received while playing with matches. The mother left the child and a baby in the house alone.

REGISTRY WILL COST NEAR $2300

tinues to be a difference of opinion. Most of the farmers contend that rural communities do not need registration. They say that it is practically impossible for a man to "get by" in a country precinct without having his right to vote thoroughly established. They say the county precincts are practically as safe against fraud without registration as with it, but they admit that registration is needed in the cities and towns.

It has been revealed that the registration need not be made burdensome, expensive unless those in charge of it want it made so. Had there not been a determination upon the part of those who were in charge of the Rush county registration to keep the cost down to the lowest possible figure, it could easily have been a great deal more. It would have been possible under the law to make the cost of registration in Rush county more than twice as large as it is.

Members of all parties agree that the big registration means that there is going to be a big vote in the November election. Many predict that it will exceed the vote of four years ago by several hundred, and a few are of the opinion that the increase will not fall much below fifteen hundred.

The tabulated results of the registration indicate that the voters who complied with the law so they can vote are in the majority of the voters who went to the polls two years ago. In but two precincts, it will be seen, was there a falling off as compared with the 1910 vote. The tabulated comparison follows:

ROBBERY ROILS MRS. JOHN GABRIEL

Says Boys Who Were Caught in Glenwood After Theft of Rid Damaged It.

TAKE CHICKENS AND PUMPKINS

Mrs. John Gabriel, whose house was taken by the two boys who drove it to Glenwood, Monday, objects to the matter being treated lightly, says the Connorsville News. She says the horse and rig was stolen by the boys and that furthermore they stole chickens and pumpkins while on their way to Glenwood. Also, the lady says that when the rig was returned there was a lap robe in it which did not belong there and was probably stolen and that the owner can have it by calling her home.

She says the horse was lame and was injured by the long drive; that the rig was damaged and that suit for damage will positively be instituted unless satisfactory settlement is promptly made.

about which he has no right to be ignored or indifferent. These are the things that concern him most and the most important of them all is the question of his relation of God and the life to come and until you get enough concern about this question as to have an honest desire to know the truth, there can be absolutely no hope for you in the day when you meet Him.

"The second thing is to live up to the truth as far as you can see it. Jesus Christ says, 'If any man will, that is, make up his mind, to do the will of God, he shall know whether the things of Christ are true.'

"Oh, my brother, oh, my sister, believe it tonight, believe it tonight. Yes I challenge you to try it. The trouble with so many of you is that you don't want to. It means too much for you. You know if you're a beer guzzler it would make you sober and decent. If you are a libertine, you will have to quit, and you don't want to quit.

"A desire to know and a willingness to do. God'll save you if you've got that. And why? Just because they'll lead you do the things necessary to your salvation. And what are they? Well the first is, an open confession of Jesus Christ before the world. Jesus Christ demands this. Why shouldn't He. If you're ashamed of Him in this sinful and adulterous generation, He'll be ashamed of you and he ought to be.

"The other essential thing is an honest effort to forsake sin. That a man anxious to know and willing to do the will of God should not come into a deep appreciation of what sin is and what ought to be his attitude toward it, is unthinkable. You say, 'Show me They will oh God, and I will do it so far as I can' and just as sure as God is in the universe, there will come to you a deep conviction of sin and a Godly sorrow for it and you will confess your sin and forsake it. Of course if you have made up your mind that you would rather sin at any cost than to do the will of God you will have to go on and sin and get hell for it when you are done. You are a creature of your own will what you will to be, you will be. There are not enough devils in hell to keep you out of heaven if you really want to go there, and there is no power in heaven that can save you if you are determined to go to hell. Oh, man are you willing to do the will of God? You cannot hope for mercy if you do not say good bye to sin. But here is His words: 'Let the wicked forsake his way, and the uprighteous man his thoughts, and let him return unto the Lord, and He will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon.' But some one says, 'What's the use? Why must I make this preparation to meet God? I'll take ten minutes yet to tell you for three reasons.

"First: Every man must stand before the judgment seat of God. Every man, says Paul, shall give an account of himself to God. There is no man of earnest thought today, who teaches that death is the end of man and of the person without a man, the immortal self, is to live beyond the grave, the destiny must belong to the great Intelligence whom we know is God. Listen! 'It is appointed unto man once to die and after death judgment.

"The second reason why a man ought to prepare to meet God is that he would be an awful thing to meet him unprepared.

"The third reason why a man ought to prepare to meet God is because of what it means to meet Him when you are prepared."
